See the Desert
Mrs. McCormick Wins
Inside Wet, Outside Dry
Mr. Sloan's Flourine

—By Arthur Brisbane—

HODGE, CAL., April 10—This beautiful Mojave desert country is covered, for miles in all directions, with wild flowers, yellow, blue, purple, scarlet. The tall Spanish bayonet plants carry huge white blossoms, each protected by a circle of sharp bayonets. The Joshua trees, growing above 4000 feet elevation, spread their heavy flowering branches in eccentric fashion. Big desert turtles are out, in pairs. This is their sentimental season. Jack rabbits are fat and run slowly, thanks to abundant fillaree and other desert grasses born of the scant desert rain.

The alfalfa fields, irrigated from well tapping the underground Mojave river at the rate of 500 pounds of water for every pound of alfalfa harvested, look like a thick, dark green velvet carpet. Louis Weiss, of Victorville, is now laying for the writer of this column 12-inch cement pipe for more alfalfa acres. It does not pay an absentee farmer. But this spot produces the finest alfalfa hay grown anywhere in America. Sold here at $22 a ton, it is 100 per cent better than alfalfa that costs the writer $40 a ton for horse feed in New Jersey.

Come here on your way West to see a beautiful part of America and breathe wonderful air, from the Pacific ocean, which is 70 miles west of here, and 2500 feet lower than this high desert land.

But do not come to make money in real estate, for you will not do that. It is a place to invest, if you enjoy changing desert sand into green alfalfa fields. But the investment will yield only satisfaction, "one self-approving hour," in place of money.

Mrs. McCormick's victory in the Illinois primary election is doubly satisfactory. It will send an intelligent, hard-working, ambitious woman to the Senate, which ought to have one good woman from each state. And it tells the blind of Washington and elsewhere that this country is against the League of Nations-World Court nonsense and wants no European entanglements. Mrs. McCormick vigorously opposed the league throughout the campaign. Her opponent for the Republican nomination was all for the league, and he stays at home, to think it over.

A poll of congressmen shows that a strong majority among those willing to answer are bone dry politically.

A scientific medical poll of congressional interiors would show in many cases a wetness not apparent in the members voting.

Many a pair of congressional kidneys, if they could talk, would say to their owners, "Please drink as you vote, you are working us to death."

Among others of our great industrialists, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors, appropriates millions each year for scientific research. Thanks to this wise and profitable course, followed by the nation's greatest corporations, Steel, Standard Oil, etc., important discoveries are made in many directions.

A General Motors laboratory devoted to improving artificial refrigeration, the mechanical ice box, has produced a new substance called flourine, a combination of flourine, chlorine and methane. Poured into a receptacle, the flourine "boiled" at a temperature 18 degrees below zero.

Dr. Midgeley, whose research work is sponsored and financed by Mr. Sloan, placed his face above the flourine, allowing its fumes to enter his mouth. He then breathed gently upon a flame and it was instantly extinguished.

Mussolini forbids intoxication, which means more in Italy than 40 Constitutional amendments would mean here. But Mussolini allows his Legislature to decide that the mild and rare drunkenness caused by drinking natural Italian wines doesn't count. Only hard liquor drunkenness.

To prohibition, that seems absurd, but it is not quite absurd scientifically. Natural wines, no matter how much you drink, do not produce delirium tremens.

Champagne, of course, is not included among natural wines and is about as bad as whiskey with the additional disadvantage of completing the process of fermentation in your stomach.

The Italian deputy Cruciani says, truly, that wine drinking populations are not drunken. Italy has lost her wine markets in Russia and America. Italian wines are cheap, abundant and yet their use has fallen. In 1913 each Italian averaged 32 gallons of wine a year. Last year, the average was 20 gallons. Mussolini has kept his country-

BIG 5 TO SIGN NAVAL PACT 'IN BLANK'

U. S. Induces Italy and France to Agree on Three-Power Anglo-Jap Treaty

London, April 10 (AP)—American participation in any consultative pact in connection with the London naval conference was said in authoritative quarters late today to have been definitely ruled out as a possibility in consequence of the trend of today's developments.

London, April 10 (AP)—Naval conference experts were understood to have been put to work today drafting a five-power agreement which both Foreign Ministers Briand of France and Grandi of Italy have tentatively agreed to sign as an outgrowth of American intervention.

This treaty, it was said, will in effect be a comprehensive three-power pact between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, but will include numerous points on which all the five powers are agreed and which France and Italy can sign.

LEAVES PART BLANK

The present plan is that controversial matters between France and Italy, such as Italy's parity demand and France's tonnage claim, will be left out and the clauses which exclusively affect the other three powers will be so worded that the two Latin countries will not be involved.

The decision to adopt this procedure was reached after Secre-

CURTIS MAY BE HEAD OF HUB POLICE

Prominent Attorney Not Willing to Say He Would Decline the Post

Charles Pelham Curtis, noted Boston lawyer, sportsman and former member of the old police commission, has been offered the police commissionership of Boston, according to a report from the State House today.

The report had it that Curtis, a member of the police commission 10 years, had been secretly tendered the post of successor to Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson by Gov. Allen.

Mr. Curtis denied to the Boston Evening American that he had received the offer, but refused to

STOCK PRICES GO SOARING

New York, April 10 (AP)—Stock prices surged upward almost steadily today in a session that saw total sales well in excess of 5,000,000 shares.

Representative shares rose $3 to $10, many to new high marks for the year. The upward movement was accelerated around noon by the unexpected increase of about 90,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation and by an advance in Mid-Continent crude oil prices.

Indications that the public was again in the market influenced aggressive operations by pools which met market success in numerous instances. Blocks of 5000 to 35,000 shares changed hands. Among the issues at new 1930 peaks were General Electric, General Motors, Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, International Harvester, Corn Products Refining and Remington-Rand.

Several of the so-called blue chip shares were buoyant. J. I. Case soared $10 to $308, and Ingersoll-Rand $9.25 to $209, both new maximums. Allied Chemical rose $7.25 to $315, also a new top, and U. S. Steel sold within $1 of its 1930 high, touching $197.75 after publication of the tonnage figures.

On Tuesday Senator Deneen ran for renomination in the Republican primaries in Illinois on a ticket advocating our entrance into the International Court of the League of Nations.

Ruth McCormick ran against him on a platform with just one plank, STAY OUT of the League and all its branches, including its legal department.

This was the ONLY ascertainable issue between the two candidates. Illinois and the country watched the election as a REFERENDUM on the League Court.

Well the VOTERS of Illinois agreed with Mrs. McCormick.

SO DECLARES WITNESS IN GARRETT INQUIRY

Taxi Driver Corroborates the Testimony of Ex-Hotel Man Being "Bled"

Police graft for protection of the Hotel Ritz liquor traffic amounted to $300 or $400 a [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] hearing of the attorney-general's investigation of Oliver B. Garrett.

Harry E. Adams, former bookkeeper at the defunct Columbus ave. resort, testified that John F. Sullivan, Ritz owner, told him he was paying the police that much.

The Ritz proprietor testified last Friday that his payments for protection monthly were $50 and $100 to Garrett, and $20 each to Sergt. Arthur Timmons and Special Officer Arthur Tiernan.

Adams, another "surprise witness," was questioned by Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Damon E. Hall before a capacity crowd which did not include "Ollie" Garrett. Herbert F. Callahan, his attorney, was present, however, and cross-examined one of six witnesses questioned.

WILSON ABSENT

Also absent today were Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, his attorney, Frank Stewart, and his secretary, John H. Merrick.

Just before the hearing ended, Hall read into the record Capt. Patterson's testimony before the legislative rules committee when that body was considering the Garrett investigation order. The vice squad head told the legislators Garrett had nothing to do with the Pine Grove farm and the barn there, since shown to have cost $12,000, was of the mail order $800 variety.

During his employment at the Ritz, center of police graft and corruption charges, Adams occasionally discovered cash drawn and not accounted for on the books, he testified.

To keep the books straight he questioned Sullivan regarding these missing funds.

"He said some of it was for his personal use and some to pay police officers," Adams testified.

"How frequently," asked Hall, "was money used to pay police officers?"

"Two or three times a month."

"Did you have information that it amounted to about $200 a month in payments to police officers?"

"Much more than that," the witness answered. "Three hundred or $400 more."

Asked the source of his information, he said Sullivan told him.

He said he never saw any payments but that he knew of the main floor room in which policemen drank and ate.

Sullivan told him, he said, about the payment of $120 to a sergeant

M'Cormick Victory Acclaimed as Repudiation of League Court

SENATOR WATSON.

Washington, April 10.

THE victory of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick in the Illinois Republican senatorial race on a campaign against the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations called forth a statement of the highest import today from James E. Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, inasmuch as the question of American adherence to the League Court will be put before that body again at the next session by President Hoover. Senator Watson said:

"The nomination in Chicago means thumbs down on American entry into the League of Nations or the World Court.

"And this result is significant also, in that it forever settles the question as to whether or not women shall occupy seats in the Senate. The people of Illinois have determined that question, and this Illinois primary in all future time will be cited as a governing precedent.

"And it settled another question: Heretofore it has been universally surmised that all women were for the entry of our country into the League of Nations and the League Court. But Mrs. McCormick's victory completely disposes of that theory.

"It is quite evident she received a very large vote of the women of Illinois on that question, showing all women are not pacifists, nor are they inclined to the theory that in order to discharge our obligations to the world we must be enmeshed in its political entanglements."

Philadelphia, April 10.

FORMER Senator George Wharton Pepper, from Pennsylvania, issued the following statement on Ruth Hanna McCormick's victory:

"It will check attempts to flood America with League of Nations propaganda. She has effectively plugged the leak in the dyke.

"While not neglecting domestic issues, she has demonstrated her fitness to deal with the international problems which are the distinctive responsibility of the Senate.

"Since Washington's time the foreign policy of the United States has been to seek honorable peace but to avoid those permanent commitments which, while bearing the label of peace, have always proved a fruitful source of war.

"She took her stand with the upholders of this American tradition and was relentless in exposing every effort to dodge the issue. She has made it unsafe for her Democratic adversary to line up with his party in advocating League membership for the United States and she has compelled him to seek cover in the wet and dry issue at the very moment when his party is being split by it.

"Her victory, therefore, has not only a national but an international significance."

APELMAN SAW TIMMONS AT RITZ DURING RAID

for release of a carload of ale, an incident to which the Ritz proprietor had testified.

Another witness who testified Sullivan told him he was paying for police protection is William Gottsman, a taxi-driver, who had a stand at the Ritz. Gottsman had a weak memory regarding the identities of the police who accepted graft.

Joseph Apelman, federal prohibition agent, was another witness who testified to liquor traffic at the Ritz and police protection given it.

This protection was so strong, Apelman testified, that on one occasion when he was there with another agent and had been served liquor on orders of the headwaiter, two police sergeants from Division 5 were called to eject two men who had the audacity to take their own liquor into the dining room, instead of buying it at the hotel.

One of these policemen Apelman identified as Sergt. Sheehan and the other "had a short French name." And they not only ejected the two men and their bottle, but walked about the dining room, paying no attention to the bottles of hotel liquor on the tables, Apelman said.

The incident, as Apelman related it amid the laughter of the crowd, could be likened to two men taking their own lunch into a restaurant and created quite as much excitement as that act might arouse.

The waiter told Apelman, he said, that the police were being paid to protect the Ritz liquor rights.

WALKINS' TRANSFER

An indication that the hearing would go deep into the cause of the transfer of Capt. James J. Walkins from Division 19, Mattapan, to a less important post at headquarters was seen in the testimony of Lieut. William J. Carey.

Capt. Walkins' transfer followed a raid in his district by Garrett and his squad and trouble that developed between Carey and Garrett because the Mattapan station patrol was late reaching the scene of Garrett's raid.

Garrett reported the incident to Capt. George W. Patterson of the vice squad. Patterson reported to Commr. Wilson. Wilson demanded an explanation from Capt. Walkins and received it in the reports from Lieut. Hennessey.

The commissioner wrote Capt. Walkins he was not satisfied with the "flimsy excuses," it was shown. Walkins' transfer to police headquarters was some time later. Walkins will be called tomorrow, it is expected.

Garrett's statement on the event of his transfer from the liquor squad contained no blow-the-lid threat according to William E. Brennan, Boston newspaper reporter who was a witness.

Garrett did say that he knew the transfer was coming because bootleggers had told him so and charged that these bootleggers received their information from Sergt. William McKenzie, Brennan said.

The deposed raider said that Sergt. McKenzie, formerly Wilson's chauffeur, had been placed on the squad to "spy" on him, Brennan testified.

The other witness was J. Mansfield Scott, who related in some detail the alleged "frameup" which Garrett engineered, according to yesterday's testimony by Louis Chappelle, former Watch and Ward agent. Scott claimed he was the victim of the "frame" in which "Little Evelyn" was forced to bring charges against him.

Today's hearing ended with the morning session. There will be a resumption tomorrow with "original" Sam Goldstein on the stand. Goldstein charges he paid a policeman $500 to "fix" a court case for him.

Before today's hearing Garrett visited municipal court with Atty. Callahan but did not go with him to the State House.

TELLS OF RITZ FIGHT

Apelman told of a visit to the Ritz on March 3, 1928, in the company of another agent. They ordered food and liquor and the head waiter ordered their waiter to give them liquor, he said. Whiskey and a bottle of wine were served to them, he said, adding:

"There were a number of people drunk and much liquor was being served by waiters."

He described a fight between several women and then, while the crowd roared, he continued:

"I heard another commotion and saw two young men sitting at a table and a number of waiters standing about abusing them. I asked our waiter what the trouble was. He said, 'Those two —— brought their own bottle. What do you think of that? The head waiter is going to call up the police and complain about them.'"

Two sergeants arrived from Station 5 in answer to the complaint made, Apelman said. One, he learned, was named Sheehan and the other had a short French name.

"The officers finally ejected them and the young men took their bottle with them. The sergeants came back and walked around but no bottles were removed from the tables."

Apelman said he put his bottle under the table and his waiter came over and asked him what the idea was, and he said he was afraid he would be arrested.

"The waiter replied: 'Don't worry about that. We don't pay those people for nothing.'"

The sergeants finally went into the kitchen, the witness testified.

He then told of the raid on Aug. 7, 1928, by federal agents, and of seeing Sergt. Arthur Timmons come in. Timmons appeared confused when he saw the raiders, Apelman said, and told them he was there to inspect the register, but started to leave without doing so.

"Major Goodenough reminded him of the purpose of his visit. He walked over to the register, but his hands trembled so that the book almost fell out of them."

Apelman said he didn't think Timmons was drunk.

Police Lieut. Carey was the next witness. He was a sergeant in the Mattapan division under Capt. Walkins. Asked if on Feb. 13, 1927, he had trouble with Garrett, he told of how, on Feb. 13, 1927, he was about to take out in the Mattapan station patrol the men who were to relieve half of the morning watch when the phone in the station rang and Lieut. Hennessey, who answered, said the headquarters squad wanted the wagon at the Harvard Garage.

ACCUSED PATTERSON

Although the call was called early, there was delay in reaching the garage where the headquarters squad was waiting, and when the patrol finally arrived there Garrett said to Carey, it was testified:

"It's —— —— near time. They might all have been killed if they were in a fight. I'm not talking it over now. I'll tell it to someone else."

Lieut. Carey reported his talk with Garrett and Garrett's language, and two or three months later he met Capt. George W. Patterson, who had also made a report on the affair.

Carey accused Patterson of doing him an injustice in his report and he said Patterson replied:

"I had to do it. You don't know what I'm up against."

Both Carey and Lieut. Hennessey were reprimanded as a result of Patterson's report, Carey testified.

Garrett's report of the affair showed the time of the wagon's arrival to have been 16 minutes later than testified to by Carey.

Garrett's report went to Patterson. Patterson's report went to Commr. Wilson. Wilson wrote to Capt. Walkins deploring the tardiness of the wagon and demanding reports from Capt. Walkins and Sergt. Carey.

Lieut. Hennessey reported that he thought the raid had resulted in a liquor seizure, that the circumstances were not explained to him by Raider Daley, who telephoned, and that had he known men were under arrest the wagon would have been at the garage in seven minutes.

WILSON'S CENSURE

Hall read into the record Wilson's censure of the Mattapan police involved in which he told Capt. Walkins the excuses were "too flimsy" to suit him.

Brennan was called. He testified to seeing Garrett at headquarters on Aug. 13 last, the day his transfer from the liquor squad to patrol duty at Station 1.

Garrett, he said, told him the transfer was no surprise, that bootleggers had told him it was going to take place and that Sergt. McKenzie had told them.

"He was put down there in the first place to do nothing but spy on me," Brennan quoted Garrett as saying.

Garrett's statement on his transfer, Brennan said, was:

"I am going on my vacation tonight. When I return I will make a clear and concise statement, leaving no one in doubt. They are sending me to the Joy st. station. Capt. McDevitt has no reason to feel friendly toward me. A short time before I raided a gambling place on his division and arrested 20 men."

Later, Brennan said, Garrett remarked:

"That's all the appreciation

Americans and want the government at Washington TO MIND ITS OWN BUSINESS AND OUR OWN BUSINESS.

Illinois reports that the people do NOT want their government to entrust our future peace and prosperity and our vital national interests into the hands of ANY KIND of foreign organization controlled by foreign votes.

In language as plain as the people can use, they told President Hoover that they want him to STAY AWAY from foreign organizations and leagues and alliances and pacts and courts.

They want him to do all his self advertising and to make his place in history not by intruding into European complications and conflicts, but by serving the best interest of his own people and his own country.

Since it is the VOTERS who have spoken, we suspect that the politicians, perhaps even including the President, will finally pay some little attention to what the Hearst newspapers have been trying to tell them for the last five years, ever since the internationalists first got Harding to recommend United States entry into this alleged "court," with ten foreign judges and one American judge on it.

United States Senators in particular will thoughtfully chew the cud of the news from Illinois. Some day —so the President has announced—he may ask the Senate to ratify his personal agreement to put the United States into this international court that Illinois has just voted on. Deneen shows what happens to a Senator who leaves his own to stand on foreign soil.

We sometimes wonder whether President Hoover is actually capable of attaining any real comprehension of what the American people WANT in foreign policy.

If he can now, in the light of the Illinois election, better understand the sentiment of the American people he will FORGET about the International Court of the League of Nations.

He will take this particular charter of internationalism and quietly slip it into the nice deep ash can which the voters of Illinois have generously provided for him.

He will attend to his neglected HOME WORK which has not been going so well of late.

He might even spend an evening or two in his study reading up on what Washington and the other founders of the nation said about foreign entanglements; the things he learned as an American schoolboy in Iowa and California; the things he has forgotten in his long residence in foreign lands.

It's getting very late, Mr. President.

BETTER COME BACK HOME!

PEOPLE TURN 'THUMBS DOWN' ON LEAGUE'S COURT

Washington, April 10—The people of Illinois have turned thumbs down on the League Court by a margin of nearly 225,000 votes in a solemn referendum on the issue.

That thought is uppermost in official and political circles here after an accounting of the smashing victory of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick over Senator Charles S. Deneen in the Republican senatorial primary.

Such a profound effect did the result have in the Senate that predictions were made that President Hoover will defer indefinitely the submission of the revised pact for ratification and—

"THUMBS DOWN ON LEAGUE"

If and when he does the Senate will reject the protocol with the Root-Hurst formula, which would strip America of the safeguarding Senate reservations.

"Thumbs down on the League of Nations and the League Court that's what it means," was the terse comment of Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate.

This stalwart administration supporter said he did not need to amplify his statement but his friends interpreted it to mean that Watson regarded the McCormick triumph as significant of sentiment in the country on the League Court issue presented to the Senate.

The majority leader's colleague, Senator Arthur R. Robinson of Indiana, was too plain in his comment to need any interpretation. He said:

"It is just another proof that the American people are against the League of Nations, its legal advice and all entangling alliance with the old world.

"I am just as confident as I stand here that the Senate will never ratify the league court with the so-called Root formula, drafted by an Englishman named Sir Cecil Hurst."

U. S. VERDICT, SAYS BORAH

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, applied the Illinois result to the nation. He said:

"It would seem from the returns that the people of Illinois are not in favor of the World Court and I presume the reason is that they know it is not a World Court but a League Court.

"In my opinion the result would be the same in a popular vote in any State where the issue is presented."

A pall of gloom hung over the White House, which was counting heavily on a victory for Deneen to bolster up President Hoover's espousal of the Root plan for getting the United States into the League Court.

While no official comment was forthcoming, it was stated authoritatively that the President would delay indefinitely the submission of the League Court to the Senate. That was accepted on Capitol Hill as meaning that no attempt to press the issue would be made until the 72d Congress, at least.

Victory Elates "Feminine Bloc"

Universal Service

Washington, April 10—The "feminine bloc" in Congress is highly elated over the nomination of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick for the United States Senate from Illinois.

That Mrs. McCormick has blazed a new trail for women and helped every other woman in politics thinking of running for office, was the consensus of opinion of the "feminine bloc."

"While the election of women to the House of Representatives had a tendency to smatter the bugaboo that women would not make good lawmakers, Mrs. McCormick's smashing victory should put the quietus on such foolish talk," said Representative Florence P. Kahn (R.) of California.

"Mrs. McCormick is a very capable woman and will make a very good senator," Mrs. Kahn said, continuing:

"Mrs. McCormick owes her nomination largely to her firm stand against entangling the United States in the League of Nations or its agency, the League Court.

"The people of Illinois are against such entanglements and so are a majority of the people throughout the country.

"I believe the newspapers owned by William Randolph Hearst also deserve much credit for her victory."

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (R) of Massachusetts, said:

"I am delighted over Mrs. McCormick's victory. It is the result of her efficient organization. The question of sex should not enter into the comparison of candidates. Women are as capable as men.

"I don't believe that her sex helped or hindered her in the race. She won because the people thought she was the best fitted for the high office.

"Her success will help women in public life since it shows that the people, after all, do not let the sex question interfere with their judgment."

Studying events in India you realize that British statesmen are able, and Britons understand management of foreign possessions. Mahatma Gandhi continues his personal rebellion against Britain, twisting the poor lion's tail, remorselessly, preaching sedition and disobedience, breaking the salt laws, etc.

The lion pretends not to know about it and carefully refrains from jailing Gandhi, which would make him a martyr. But Britain jails the Mahatma's followers, including his son, and sends 4000 native troops to disperse, and shoot if necessary, thousands of workers, seeking to capture a British gold mine.

Deneen "Sacrificed" on Court Issue, Says Dill

Washington, April 10 (INS)—Senator Charles S. Deneen, defeated for the Republican nomination as senator from Illinois by Ruth Hanna McCormick, was characterized as a "human sacrifice" of the administration on the league court issue by Senator Dill (D.) of Washington in the Senate today.

"The returns from the Illinois primaries reminds us again that Senator Deneen has been made a human sacrifice," Dill said. "It shows again that the people of Illinois are against entanglements with the affairs of Europe. There is no question in anyone's mind but that the league court was the issue in Illinois.

"I want to say here that I believe that Senator Deneen belongs to the clean faction of his party in Illinois and he is a good senator as far as senators go. He is entitled to re-election on his record, but went down to defeat on this issue."

Lewis to Force Dry Issue Against Mrs. McCormick

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—Prohibition has been raised by James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, as the major issue of his campaign against Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, for election next November in the United States Senate.

Lewis shot the question of "personal liberty" to the fore soon after Senator Charles S. Deneen congratulated Mrs. McCormick on her victory.

"It is an issue from which I shall not allow any candidate—man or woman—to escape," the former Senator said.

Claire Luce's Love Match Periled

New York, April 10—Clifford Warren Smith, society aviator, is revealed as a marksman who would kill two marriages with one legal stone.

Claire Luce Smith.

His aim was disclosed in a Supreme Court action which bared a bitter struggle between him and his former wife, Mrs. Ardath Crain Johnstone, over a trust fund for their daughter, Ardath, eight.

She re-married after she divorced Smith in Maine in 1927. Smith also re-married, his wife being Claire Luce, Ziegfeld Follies beauty.

Despite the second marriages, Mrs. Johnstone charges, Smith has attacked the divorce she obtained, thereby threatening to invalidate both marriages.

Mrs. Johnstone demands that Smith disclose the grounds on which he claims her Maine divorce is not good and whether, since he has remarried, he claims to be a bigamist.

Mrs. Opal Kuntz Cool in Air Crash

Bethlehem, Pa., April 10—Pinned to the cockpit of her airplane, Mrs. Opal Kuntz, prominent socially in New York, calmly directed employes of the Bethlehem airport as they worked to release her from the wreckage.

MORGAN'S $2,500,000 YACHT IS LAUNCHED WITH WINE OF 1915

HIS DAUGHTER CHRISTENS BIG CRAFT

Largest Pleasure Boat Is Finished in Teak Wood and Has Every Modern Convenience

Bath, Me., April 10 (INS)—The black-hulled princess of the sea, Corsair IV., was launched from the yard of the Bath Iron Works today for J. P. Morgan, New York financier.

The launching was private, only the owner and a few close friends being present. The craft was christened by Mrs. George Nichols, Morgan's daughter.

A specially decorated bottle of champaigne of 1915 was used in the christening but the $2,500,000 "princess of the sea" is not equipped with a bar, as are many other yachts, for the Morgans are known teetotalers.

Fred Meilleux, an employe of the shipyard, was seriously injured during the launching when he fell from a vantage point on top of the plate shop. The last rung in his ladder broke and he fell 40 feet.

He was rushed to the Bath City Hospital suffering from a broken leg and possible internal injuries.

The Kennebec bridge, a few hundred feet away from the launching slip, was crowded with people. A tugboat took care of newspaper men.

The new Corsair is 343 feet long over all, or ten feet longer than the Orion, Julius Frostmann's craft, which until today was the largest private yacht afloat. On the water line, the Corsair measures 280 feet. Her beam is 42 feet, 6 inches and the tonnage is 3,080.

LIKE CLIPPER SHIP.

She is the fourth yacht to fly the Morgan pennant. The electro-turbine plant, developing 6,000 horsepower and driving two propellers, will give the yacht a speed of 16 knots and the cruising radius is 25,000 miles. Oil will be the fuel.

The cost of the Corsair was estimated at around $2,500,000. Capt. W. B. Porter, 28 years in the Morgan employ, will be master and will have a crew of 58 officers and men.

Designed by Henry J. Gielow, Inc., New York, the yacht replaced the Corsair III recently given to the government and hereafter to be known as the Oceanographer in the Geodetic service.

The yacht looks like a clipper ship with its rakish masts and one funnel amidships. The superstructure, in contrast to the black hull, is shining white and covers 200 feet of the length. She sits low in the water and is expected to be very seaworthy.

Teak was imported from India for all exposed woodwork and the same wood is used in decking, beam work and panels except in the crew's quarters were mahogany is the finish wood. Walnut and teak were used in making cabinets and lockers.

There are two separate quarters for Mr. Morgan, one on the main deck, aft, the other under the pilot house, forward. With Mr. Morgan's quarters are a stateroom, writing room, bath and clothes closets. In each instance his quarters run the width of the yacht.

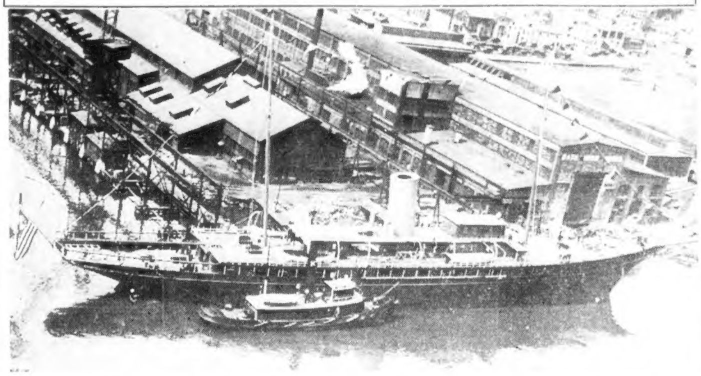
HAS A FIREPLACE.

Five staterooms provide accommodations for guests and members of his family. There are also special quarters for his secretary and his his physician.

A large lounging room, wide as the beam, contains an open fireplace. The dining room, breakfast room and observation chamber are on the main deck.

On the boat deck are four lifeboats and two launches. One of the latter is Mr. Morgan's private craft, the other for the crew. No stanchions or cables are found on the deck. Making it unique in this respect.

Largest Yacht Afloat Proudly Rides the Wave



Airplane photo shows the Corsair IV tied up at the dock in Bath, Me., today, after she had been launched and christened. She is owned by J. P. Morgan and cost $2,500,000. She is the largest privately-owned pleasure craft afloat and will carry a crew of 59 officers and men. Every modern convenience that could be conceived on a boat has been given to her. NAB 6 AND RUM IN IPSWICH

Ipswich, April 10—Returning to Stue Island, where early today they had seized 600 pints of mixed liquors and arrested four men, police today seized 1800 additional pints.

The liquor, valued at approximately $40,000, is declared by police to have been landed from a 60-foot power boat which put out to sea while police were making their seizure.

Later in the day Coast Guard patrol boat No. 156, attached to the Gloucester station, chased and captured Independence II, a power boat, of Gloucester, which had been sighted emerging from the Ipswich river. Two men on board were held despite the fact that no liquor was found.

Arrested in the first seizure were Robert Marshal of Rowell ave., Lynn; Dominic DeBonie of Bell Rock st., Ipswich; Armand Gauthier of Glover st., Ipswich, and Archie Purgeon of Essex st., Salem.

Marshal and Gauthier, the two alleged lookouts, who were seated in a light touring car in the private street where the liquor was landed, are charged with having loaded revolvers in their possession.

All four are charged with illegal transportation of liquor.

Patrolmen Gordon Ewing and Byard Horsman were cruising in a police car when they came upon Marshal and Gauthier in the parked car and questioned them.

Their unsatisfactory answers led to suspicion that liquor was being landed and Police Chief Edward Bleauvelt was notified.

Accompanied by his two patrolmen and Sergt. Thomas McGuinness and Trooper Thomas Hazelton of the state patrol, the chief went to Spue Island and found DeBonie and Purgeon on the beach with the liquor.

COOLIDGE OUT OF PUBLIC LIFE

Former President Can See No Hope of Settling the Liquor Problem for Some Time

New York, April 10 (AP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge, in a copyrighted article in the May issue of Hearst's International and Cosmopolitan, writes that he has no intention of returning to public life.

The former President gives his views on prohibition, the tariff, playing the market, the suggestion that he run for senator, the talk of another term and "minding one's own business."

"When I left Washington I left public office," Mr. Coolidge says. "It is an incomprehensible relief and I have no intention of returning to it.

"If I were in the Senate, it would not be agreeable to many of my colleagues, and with all my desires to be helpful it would probably oftentimes be an embarrassment to the administration. To have a former President in Washington exercising political power would result in all kinds of uncomfortable complications. Only the necessity of serving in some national crisis, so great as to subordinate all other considerations, would warrant it.

"Nor do I have any sympathy with those who are discussing again making me President. The service that I could give to the people in that office I feel is done."

Mr. Coolidge discusses prohibition at some length, and in connection therewith the editor of the Cosmopolitan has singled out for prominent presentation this sentence:

"Considering that people have differed most radically on the best method of regulating the sale of liquor for generations, it is not likely to be settled for a long time to come."

Senators Think Coolidge Should Be Candidate Again

Washington, April 10 (INS)—The announcement of former President Calvin Coolidge that he will not run again for public office today occasioned but slight surprise here.

Senator Bingham (R), Connecticut, felt Mr. Coolidge would accept another nomination if it were tendered him.

"Assuming Mr. Coolidge to be a good Republican, it is natural to believe that he would follow the wishes of his party if at any time in the future it chose to nominate him for the presidency," said Bingham. "As virtually every President, Republican and Democrat, since the Civil War has been renominated, it is natural to expect President Hoover will be renominated. For Mr. Coolidge to express any different belief than the one he has would embarrass the administration, and he specifically expressed the desire not to embarrass the administration."

Senator Copeland (D.), New York, although of the opposite party, shared Bingham's view.

"Man proposes," said Copeland. "It doesn't make any difference what Mr. Coolidge thinks. It is what his party and the great American people think. As for his coming to the Senate it might embarrass the administration, but it wouldn't embarrass the Senate."

QUINN KIDNAP CASE DEFERRED

New York, April 10—Continuance until April 16 granted for the hearing on kidnaping charges brought against three employes of J. Morgan Corbett, wealthy Boston real estate man, by James Quinn, aviator, at the request of Hyman Bushel, Quinn's attorney, in West Farms Court.

The three men, Arthur Hamel of Haverhill, Mass.; Edward Kendal of East Reading, Mass., and Edward Klein of New York, continued their freedom under bail.

Bushel, in requesting the delay, said that "other defendants, including Corbett, are not present." Magistrate John V. Flood told the attorney that Corbett was not involved in the proceedings.

Thomas C. O'Brien, former district attorney in Boston, represented Corbett in court. Edward J. Darragh of New York has been retained by Corbett to defend his three employes.

ALL 5 POWERS TO SIGN PACT

tary Stimson had visited Foreign Minister Briand and Hugh S. Gibson had conferred with Foreign Minister Grandi.

Briand is said to be enthusiastic over this solution and Grandi has also indicated tentative willingness to sign. The Italians have been rather left out of negotiations recently and Grandi is not so conversant with the trend of affairs as are the other delegation chiefs. Therefore he naturally wishes to know more about what he is expected to sign before he definitely agrees to put his name to it.

A complete agreement was reached between the United States, Great Britain and Japan earlier today and the way is now clear for their naval pact.

Prime Minister MacDonald, Secretary Stimson and Reijiro Wakatsuki met today and cleared the decks by settling the still outstanding, minor point, concerning a definition for use in connection with training ships.

Shortly after the meeting of the "Big Three" delegates, Secretary Stimson rushed off to see Foreign Minister Briand of France, and at the same time Hugh S. Gibson left to visit Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

It was said in well informed quarters that today's tripartite agreement on training ships was along the following lines: Each of the three powers has the right to retain for training purposes one capital ship which had been destined for scrapping. These ships are to be disarmed.

This really was a concession to Japan and permits her to retain one battleship which otherwise she would have had to scrap.

By the same token the United States will scrap only two instead of three and Great Britain four instead of five.

It is understood Japan also will be allowed to retain as training ships, three light cruisers which otherwise would have been soon scrapped.

It was understood at American headquarters that Secretary Stimson still hoped to catch the Leviathan, homeward bound, April 22.

THREE RAIDED; NO GRAFTERS

"Have you ever paid police protection?"

"No!"

"God bless you!"

With this repartee, started by Capt. George W. Patterson, head of the police headquarters liquor squad, three North End places were raided today by the squad and the search revealed them nothing.

As the police filed out of two places in Fleet st., and one in Richmond st., Capt. Patterson paused long enough to ask the question of the ones described as proprietor.

The liquor leader showed pleasure at the negative answers of the men, a pleasure apparently born of the State House investigation.

The swoop followed that of yesterday in which a small quantity of liquor was seized.

"Have you been offered the police commissionership?" Mr. Curtis was asked by a Boston Evening American reporter today.

"I was a police commissioner," he answered.

"But have you been offered Mr. Wilson's job?"

"No," he said.

"Will you take it if the offer is made to you?"

He laughed and replied: "That's too easy."

"What do you say, yes or no?"

"I don't want to say either," he answered.

Mr. Curtis resides at 244 Beacon st., and practices law at his Court st. offices.

DOPE DEVIL IS MENACE HARD TO CONTROL

Dope is a world-wide curse. No peoples are immune. It invades and menaces every class of society.

Dope, experts agree, is more destructive than wars, and yet the world has taken only half-hearted steps to suppress it. Greed and graft prevent aggressive measures.

In a remarkable series of six articles, based on official information, a noted British writer portrays the ramifications of the problem, and the misery, suffering and death caused by dope. In this, the first article, is described the extent of the evil and the measures necessary to curb it.

By G. W. L. DAY

Reprinted by special arrangement with the London Daily Herald

Copyright, 1930, Universal Service, Inc.

London, April 10—On the face of it, the dope evil is a menace which ought to be obvious to everybody and which could be beaten easily given a little goodwill and common sense.

What is easier than to get each government to state its legitimate requirements of dangerous drugs and fix the quotas by international arbitration? The same process could be applied to the raw materials.

But the moment you try to straighten out the dope tangle you run your head against racial customs, international treaties, State financial policies, vested interests, and a score of other bogies.

LEAGUE HELPLESS

The delegates of the various opium conferences at Geneva, held under the auspices of the League of Nations, come primed with the policies of their government. They are ready to fight the drug devil only in so far as it does NOT interfere with the opium revenues or the drug manufacturing interests which they are there to protect.

It is strange, too, that we can still talk of opium-growing or drug manufacture as a country's own private concern.

Manufactured drugs are the easiest of all commodities to smuggle. Every one of those concerned in trafficking may hope to make anything from 50 per cent to 1000 per cent profit.

WHAT IS A FINE?

What is a fine of some thousands, or a few years' imprisonment to the heads of the dope gangs? The profits are so colossal the fines are scarcely noticed.

What does it matter to traffickers if the narcotic laws are tightened up in one or two countries? There are always plenty of other countries.

Only by setting up a government factory for each country and prohibiting all exports of morphine, heroin and cocaine, can we insure a water-tight pipe-line from the chemical works to the arm or the stomach of the legitimate consumer.

The second article of this series, to appear Saturday, tells how drug smugglers evade the law.

Mail Truck Driver Cleared in Death

Charles E. McKenzie, of Ald[illegible] st., Dorchester, was cleared of blame in municipal court in causing the death of four-year-old Paul Hennessey, of East Canton st., March 25, when Judge Sheehan found no probable cause in manslaughter proceedings.

McKenzie is the driver of a United States mail truck that ran over the Hennessey child while backing into the loading platform of Station A, on Mystic st., South End. Witnesses testified the accident was not the fault of the driver.

NEW WAY TO PREPARE LAMB CHOPS

Addition of New Seasoning Improves Their Flavor

This new method really begins before the chops are put on the broiler or in the pan.

First make a mixture of ¼ teaspoonful salt, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 1 tablespoonful vinegar or lemon juice and 5 tablespoonfuls of salad oil. Pour this over the chops and let stand for a few minutes, then fry or broil them and you will be delighted with the way this seasoning heightens the flavor of the lamb. If you wish you can use the mixture to baste the chops as they cook.

The sugar is a most important ingredient of the mixture just described because it blends the salt, lemon juice and oil into a smooth, piquant goodness.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow in many other kinds of cookery. In cooking vegetables this combination noticeably and pleasantly emphasizes the flavor of carrots, spinach, string beans, cabbage and peas. Doctors approve the use of sugar as a flavor on these essential foods because it arouses the appetite to eat more of them. Good food promotes good health.—The Sugar Institute.

U. S. CAPTIVE IN MEXICO GIVEN 'ROYAL TIME'

San Angelo, Tex., April 10 (AP)—Although J. E. Bristow, San Angelo oil and mining operator, was held for ransom for nearly a month before he was freed by Mexican bandits, the kidnapers showed him every consideration, gave him the best of food, and promised protection if he returned to the vicinity to operate his mineral properties.

Details of Bristow's imprisonment in Mexico, and of his subsequent release after his son, Gordon Olan Bristow, paid $1500 ransom, were printed today in the San Angelo Times.

Yesterday, near Ahuacatlan, Nayarit, Bristow was placed astride a donkey and escorted by a messenger to the village where his son and other members of the rescue party were waiting.

In return for their friendliness Bristow said he taught the bandits how to play poker.

BIKE RACERS ON LAST LAP

New Haven, Ct., April 10—Refreshed by a night's sleep and inspired by warm sunshine, the four Harvard bicycle marathoners left here early today on the last leg of their trip from Cambridge to New York.

Their destination is Moriarty's in New York, where Fred "Speed" Richardson, Jr., will collect $500 if he finishes inside of 48 hours.

The ancient vehicles also bore up well, both the racing bicycles of Richardson and George "Bike" Barton and the tandem contraption of David C. Forbes and James L. Madden. This pair also give their names as James Hemenway and Randolph Hall, and hide their true identities behind whiskers.

The cyclists expect to reach New York today in time for lunch, barring accidents. They report that they encountered strong head-winds, bumpy roads and rough going on parts of their hop, but stuck with the grind, even when the modern automobile of James B. Campbell, manager of the Marathon, collapsed and had to be overhauled. In the auto with Campbell are John B. Taylor of Dedham, Mass., and Malcolm Stone, Jr., of Milton, Mass.

The derby encountered only one problem, which threatened for a time to undo it, at least as far as making New York in the scheduled 48 hours is concerned. A Connecticut State policeman had to be convinced that the queer-looking caravan and group of names and make-ups was on the up and up as far as the laws of the Nutmeg State are concerned.

Two Are Injured in Sacramento Quake

Sacramento, Cal., April 10 (AP)—Injury to two persons and destruction of a residence resulted from a slight earthquake experienced here yesterday.

FAHEY SCORES POWER TRUST

Activities of the New England Bureau of Public Utility Information were scored by John H. Fahey, Worcester publisher, speaking for the Public Franchise League at the continued hearing before the legislative committee on power and light.

Fahey charged that the bureau was endeavoring through the press, colleges, and even public schools to mould public opinion in favor of private ownership.

He called the committee's attention to the action of the State selling power generated at the Wachusett dam in Clinton to private power companies, which resell it to the people of Clinton at a much higher rate.

He declared that in Ottawa and Montreal, competition between municipal and privately owned plants has resulted in financial success for both. Lower rates, he pointed out, were the result of competition.

Doorbell Ringers Keep Them Awake

New York, April 10—In order to sleep undisturbed by night owls ringing doorbells, some folks living in the west fifties have a placard over the doorway reading: "This is a private house." Counsel for Harry K. Thaw revealed that this was one problem caused by speakeasies when he was arguing in court over a verdict against Thaw obtained by a night club hostess.

Writers Who Get $5 for Prohibition Views

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Although I am a firm believer in temperance, if the situation should develop itself into a showdown, the world would find me listed on the side of the wets.

As long as a person keeps the peace, I am against the curtailment of anything that interferes with his rightful pursuit of happiness.

Prohibition has had a fair trial of 10 years and has failed. The idea was railroaded upon the public by a minority of jealous, scheming, trouble-hunting idlers. These Puritanical long-noses sewed the seeds that have grown to the crop of gangsters, dopesters, grafters, political ulcers and seducers of youth such as we have never had before.

Labor conditions have never been in such a state of discontent. Men shirk their work and let it slide off any old way to "get by." That's not a true characteristic of American labor, but with that "beaten" feeling always with them, what else could be expected. Decent jobs with a living wage are still few and far between. Things were different preprohibition. Most of the great prosperity we are said to be enjoying is in the printed slush that paid papers and magazines purvey.

Let the voters decide this question and insist that the Government enforce the result at any price. Instead of talk and parley let's have some real honest-to-goodness action for a change. The People's will be done!

PHIL THOMPSON.
3 Miner st., Somerville.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Opinion in favor of prohibition enforcement:

My belief in prohibition is not based on my conviction that it can be properly enforced; that will be proved in time—but on the principle it represents.

Thinking people know that abstinence from alcohol makes for a more healthy, intelligent and industrious nation. We cannot overlook the opinions of doctors, educators, athletes, etc., on this subject. Consider the rigid requirements of an insurance examination, restrictions observed by athletes—are not these authorities enough?

The right or wrong of drinking, therefore, is obvious. The issue seems to be one of resentment, or the right of the government to take away a psuedo-liberty, right or wrong.

Issues such as slavery, prostitution, narcotics, etc., have been settled by constitutional amendment in spite of their many separate exponents.

Should we, therefore, knowing what liquor represents, and believing in the principles of our democratic government, question a law enacted for the happiness and welfare of the majority?

There are many angles to this enforcement problem to be worked out in a nation the size of ours, and if given a fair chance by the many honest, misguided people who believe in modification or repeal, the amendment can be enforced.

HAROLD T. GILLEY.
77 Winslow St., Everett.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

These are my reasons for modification:

The claim of the exponents of absolute prohibition is that the law is the answer to a necessity. Liquor and its train of evil warranted compulsory abolition.

There is no evil in moderate intemperance. The progressive usefulness of the moderate users of liquor throughout the civilized world substantiates this fact.

Extreme intemperance gives evidence of personal imbecility. A human wretch who lives for the gratification of his abnormal cravings at the price of self-respect and self-preservation.

This, then, must be the hardened dry's model. On such human derelicts they rest their rights to a law which enslaves the greater majority of normal Americans.

It is true that society owes protection to the habitually intemperate. But prohibition does not protect him. It only makes him prey to human vultures who rob him of his earnings and poison him like a rat.

We had the saloon, and it was intolerable. We have prohibition, and it does not work. Then, why not follow the course of moderation. It proved successful with every normal person. Let us have light beer and wine.

Prohibition boldly charges the entire American people with inability to behave normal.

MAURICE SEBELL.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am in favor of prohibition, because it is an amendment added to the Constitution which is "law," and all laws must be obeyed.

We are now living in the 19th century, and a law passed by the government of any civilized country is for the good of the country, and its people, too. But a law that is disrespected by its makers and enforcers is going to fail. Some people say that prohibition has had a good trial for ten years, but I say it hasn't had one one-thousandth part of a show. Look who prohibition is intrusted to, the police, for instance.

While studying the Constitution I learned the qualifications of a President, congressman, etc., but saw nothing relating to temperance in their qualifications. What a difference it would make to prohibition if a law was passed that all public officials, from the President down to the police officer on the street, in order to qualify for their respective offices, must be temperate.

Unless there are stricter laws made, and enforced, pertaining to prohibition, it will never be any better than the existing conditions of today.

ROLAND BARRETT.
115 Freemont st., Everett.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Am sending you my opinion in brief on the question of prohibition, hoping it will be given due consideration in your newspaper contest.

Prohibition abolished the saloon which in itself was a detriment to American progress and a curse to its homelife. Today, after only a 10-year experiment, the American homelife is much brighter and happier.

We must become educated to adapt ourselves to the methods and needs best suited to meet existing conditions.

With the ever-rapid mechanization and efficiency in industry, prohibition becomes necessary, particularly, when we consider the serious and every growing problem of the motorized traffic.

The American life is a fast life, and the preservation, protection and to make it a happier one is the fundamental intent and purpose of prohibition. True, it calls for a sacrifice on the part of many, but I believe time has proven and will continue to prove it a sacrifice worthwhile.

FERNAND SYLVIA.
531 Purchase st., New Bedford.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am in favor of modification of the dry law.

I think when the law was passed it was with a good intention, but what have we gained?

Bootlegging graft, hip flasks, young men and women drinking, loss of employment to many, loss of revenue to State, (and taken for a ride).

What have we gained?

GERTRUDE P. HAZLETT.
110 Highland ave., Needham.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am for modification of the prohibition law. I believe it unjust and too drastic to be forced on a nation of liberty-loving people.

I think whiskey should be sold at government dispensaries under restrictions, at a reasonable price.

The prescription laws work a hardship upon the poor when they are obliged to pay $3.00 a pint and the doctor's fee.

The sale of beer and light wines in licensed hotels and eating place would help the cause of temperance and decency.

It would do away with the drinking of rotten liquor now being sold in low dives, roadhouses and other places. Alcohol and moonshine are sold and drank in homes throughout the country, in many cases children help in the peddling.

Prohibition is breeding discontent and disregard for all law by the youth of the nation, while the underworld grows rich, bold and powerful.

Disclosures of graft and bribery of government officials connected with enforcement are so numerous they become repugnant to the people.

Modification would end the deplorable conditions now existing under the present law and meet with the approval of the majority of the people.

Fernand Sylvia, 531 Purchase st., New Bedford, for prohibition.

Gertrude Hazlett, 110 Highland ave., Needham, for modification.

Maurice Granfield, 1 Maple st., Stoneham, for modification.

Edmund J. O'Neill, 30 Jamaica st., Jamaica Plain, for repeal.

Arthur L. Stafford, 3 Orchard st., Cambridge, for repeal.

Howard W. Davis, 54 Hamilton ave., for repeal.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

In the 10 years that prohibition has been with us, we have experienced a wave of crime unequalled in the history of the country. The law doesn't function properly or efficiently.

Vice and crime, bribery and corruption are rampant. Human life is held cheaply. Hi-jacking bootleggers and grafting policemen hold the reins of power.

Prohibition has given us the Capones, the Morans, the Rothsteins and the Garretts, the beer kings and racketeers.

Those are the people, lobbying for prohibition, paying crooked politicians to vote dry.

Millions of dollars pouring out of the country for dope and drink.

And the result. Shattered homes, divorce, corrupted young men and women, seeking a thrill from gin parties, necking, with its results.

The criminal classes multiplied by thousands. The jails overflowing. Lawful business men intimidated and held to ransom.

Wake up, America! Why be the laughing stock of the world? Quit experimenting with silly laws. Give more time and thought to foreign relations, and the unemployment problem, instead of tampering with the personal habits of our people.

Repeal the law, sanction light beers and wines. Tax spirits heavily, and you will have a more temperate people.

I am a teetotaler.

EDMUND J. O'NEILL.
30 Jamaica st., Jamaica Plain.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Prohibition must be repealed.

There stands in New York harbor a rearing statue, bearing aloft a torch, symbolic of liberty and justice for all. That figurehead of our nation has gazed at the slain bodies of thousands of her subjects, sacrificed because of her insatiable desire for liberty and justice. And now for ten years America, "Land of Freedom" has stood meekly by in face of the unconstitutional and tyrannical Eighteenth Amendment.

"Give me liberty or give me death," has rung down through the centuries of our civilization. We ought to replace the "liberty" with "repeal" of this ridiculous amendment. For it is ridiculous. Other nations slyly grin, satirically cartoon it, derisively scorn it. What are Americans to think, when our foremost statesmen are daily being judged in liquor probes; when riots are prevalent throughout the land; when "bootleggers" and their gangs are systemized and vicious units of destruction and criminality. If the Eighteenth Amendment is not quickly repealed altogether, revolutions are going to spring up in some of our cities, to be followed probably by a general insurrection.

HOWARD W. DAVIS
54 Hamilton ave., Lynn.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

During the ten years of horror since the Eighteenth Amendment was forced on our blindfolded citizens by overwhelming majorities in the 46 states that ratified, statistics show that a great many of our homes have been equipped with washing machines, electric ironers, radios and iceless refrigerators.

In spite of the apparent benefits from these devices under the present laws, their greatest worth can best be realized by a repeal of the amendment. Give us back the open saloon and this laundry machinery will come in mighty handy for the wives who will be taking in washing again.

And another thing, this traffic problem is getting worse every year. Repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and thousands of these cars will soon be off the road, either in the nearby fields, wrapped around a tree, or repossessed for default of payments.

Then perhaps a man can drive out on a Sunday afternoon without seeing so many new cars filled with the families of ordinary working men who ought to be home enjoying a pint of the best to put them in shape for Monday morning.

ARTHUR L. STAFFORD,
3 Orchard st., Cambridge.

B. C. Promenade May 2

The annual sophomore promenade of Boston College will take place in the gold room of the Copley-Plaza.

BE PATRIOTIC!

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

My sentiments concerning the question of prohibition are as follows:

Are you for the bootlegger or your government? I hear all law-abiding citizens say "for our government." Well, then, repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and give to our country the wealth in revenue that the law breakers have been giving to the bootleggers.

There are more bootleggers and speakeasies today than there ever were bartenders or barrooms. The bootlegger wants prohibition because it is filling his pockets with gold. And all those who still want prohibition when they KNOW it is a failure are with the bootleggers.

I am first and always for my country and temperance, but not for prohibition as it has proven to be a complete failure after 10 years of experimenting. When wet Senators vote dry, and our police, lawyers and judges do not uphold the law and respect their country and its laws, what can you expect from the less learned group? They are the real sufferers as to loss of life, liberty and money.

So, let us have a law that will put the bootleggers and racketeers out of business, and by so doing make men of them and law abiding citizens. Our law-enforcing hypocrites can then breathe honestly.

MRS. J. H. GLIDDEN.
122 Florence st., Melrose.

NO GOOD RESULTS

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

No benefits are derived from prohibition More people drink now than previous to this law enforcement. Graft and gambling is practiced by citizens of prominence and wealth. Arrests are made daily, deaths occur daily, diseases are robbing our healthy bodies; the cause of this is prohibition.

Citizens play with this law like a small child plays with fire. Penalizing does not help one bit. Why should it? Their wallet is calling to them, "Keep on, there are plenty more fools left who will buy your poisonous liquors, and what's a couple of dollars to pay as a fine when you can easily make this money up over night." Be shrewd like Mr. Jones, who rides around in a great big Packard car and a fine raccoon coat.

American homes have turned to distilleries and breweries. Recipes are available for all liquors. Children, regardless of age, sip this home-made liquor.

If we haven't benefited in a seven year's period, how can we look forward to a sunny future?

MRS. MARTHA B. K. CAVANAUGH.
10 Hedge st., Fairhaven.

BRINGS DISEASEE

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Alcoholic drinks and beverages in their worst forms prior to prohibition could never cause the terrible effects that have been brought upon the country at the present time.

Nervous diseases decreased mentality, defiance of law, and crime of all description has created a new people, who, if refused a right which belongs to them, will consequently bring a country that has always been of highest standards, down to destruction and ruin.

Children of tender years are learning that crime has its benefits, in place of consequences.

It is time, after ten years of failure, to bring about a change that will affect future generations in a way that will be beneficial to the country.

Don't wait. The country is calling for its constitutional rights now.

Forget that little selfish voice that has brought ruin to so many, replace these United States in that respectful throne that has been so willingly abandoned and prosperity and contentment shall be assured.

THE LAST SHALL BE FIRST ---IN THE EASTER PARADE

This is the decree of modern women. Although the modern woman insists upon having good-looking shoes for the Easter parade—and Coward Shoes are certainly that—still the matter of first importance to her is having the comfort that comes only with the Coward Last.

Coward Shoes are designed by men who have devoted their lives to the study of making fine, comfortable shoes. Every pair of shoes sold in the three great Coward Shoe Stores—whether for man, woman or child—is designed to give the ultimate measure of comfort.

If you have never worn Coward Shoes, you don't know what real foot joy you are missing.

The five eyelet tie is another Coward arch-supporting Oxford, which smartly complements the Easter Suit and is a favorite with women who expect real comfort in shoes. Black kid, suede trim, $12.85 (not illustrated).

The woman with weak arches appreciates the firm Coward Arch Support; and when it is incorporated in a shoe as smart as the one-strap she is doubly pleased. Black kid, one-strap, fastened on the side with a silvered "harness" buckle, $11.45 (not illustrated).

Here is a smart, light-weight one-strap, with all of the fine features of Coward's fine shoe designing—Black kid, low Louis XV heel $12.85

One of Coward's newest oxfords, illustrated above, has a firm arch support and is particularly snug-fitting around the ankle, which insures poise and comfort—Black kid, leather covered Cuban heel . . . $12.85

Junior League Art Prizes Awarded

PRIZES WERE AWARDED for the Junior League's Regional Arts and Interests Exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts. Miss Amy Sacker, of the Sacker School of Design with Philip L. Hale, art critic, and Bernard M. Keyes, artist, acted as judges. To Margaret Newton Allen went the highest award in sculpture in the fine arts class. Miss Ruth Sutton of Springfield captured the first prize in oils; Miss Elizabeth Thacher's "Still Life" received special mention. Miss Katherine Sturgis' "Snow Scene" was found worthy of first prize in water colors. Miss Elizabeth McKeown and Miss Marian Whitcomb of Boston received special mention in this class. The charcoal portrait by Miss Lilly C. B. Smith was given the blue ribbon and Miss Jane Downing, who writes the art notes for the League's monthly news sheet, received special mention for her "Vase With Spanish Moss." Unusual are the marble papers of books which brought first arts and crafts prize to Mrs. Augustus P. Loring, Jr., and an attractive painted highback chair brought Miss Grace Cushing second prize. LAUDS PARLEY OF CLUBS

Complete approval of the plans of the Federation of College Catholic Clubs for its national conference to be held in Boston this year has been given by Cardinal O'Connell.

The announcement was made by the Rev. Richard J. Quinlan, diocesan supervisor of schools, who has represented the cardinal at various preliminary meetings of the conference committee.

Five hundred delegates and guests, representing college Catholic clubs from every part of the United States and Eastern Canada, are expected to attend this year's meeting, which will be held from July 2 to 5. Conference headquarters will be at Hotel Statler.

Many prominent Catholic women of Greater Boston, including Mrs. Francis T. Slattery and Mrs. Maurice J. Curran, are assisting in the arrangements for the conference. Cooperation is likewise being received from the Tercentenary committee, the director of celebrations of the city and the Chamber of Commerce.

Report Schildrauer to Pilot Big Plane

New York, April 10 (AP)—The New York Sun says it has learned from authoritative sources that Lieut. Clarence H. Schildrauer, Navy flier, will pilot the Dornier Do-X giant passenger flying boat, on her projected transatlantic flight this summer.

Lieut. Schildrauer was offered the opportunity of piloting the plane, the Sun says, in a cable and cabled back acceptance. He was the first flier to lay down a smoke screen from an airplane.

NEW BEACH IS ASKED

With a movement on foot to protest the filling of Gerry's Landing, where Cambridge children have bathed for years, a plan to provide a new beach in the same locality has been introduced.

Representative Paul A. Dever and City Councillor Joseph L. Crowley, both of Cambridge, filed in the Legislature a petition calling for the establishing of another beach near Gerry's Landing. It was referred to the committee on rules.

The beach at Gerry's Landing is being lost because of the construction of a new road beside the Charles river.

Although the plans were made several years ago and the matter was discussed at length last summer, when work was started many people living near the beach did not know the bathing facilities were to be lost.

The legislative petition would authorize the Metropolitan District Commission to lay out and construct the new beach.

BOSTON WOMEN GO TO VOTER'S CONCLAVE

By NANCY BREWSTER

Mrs. William Healey, president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters; Mrs. Arthur G. Rotch, first vice-president; Mrs. Roland M. Baker, chairman of Child Welfare and Mrs. Robert De Normandie, president of the Boston League, are among the Boston delegates to the 10th annual convention of the National League of Women Voters.

The sessions will be held from April 28 to May 3 in Louisville, Ky., with the president, Miss Belle Sherwin, of Cleveland and Washington, presiding.

Special recognition of the first decade of its work will be given on the convention program, and prominent national figures will address the gathering.

Keen interest is manifested by the Boston delegation in the election of new national officers since the announcement of Miss Sherwin's retirement this year, after serving six years as head of the organization.

Miss Florence Crane, manager of the Boston league's office, and Miss Harriet Jones, field secretary of the State body, are included in the local delegation.

Plans for the 10th convention of the Massachusetts branch, to be held on May 20-21, are being made throughout the State. The convention will be held in the Hotel Commander, Cambridge, and will be preceded by three pre-convention sessions. A national league officer will be the speaker on the final day.

30TH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

A membership drive was announced by Mrs. Joseph C. Otis, president of the Daughters of Massachusetts, at a luncheon at the Hotel Kenmore, when the 30th anniversary of its founding was observed.

Mrs. Frank G. Allen, Mrs. William S. Youngman, Mrs. Frederick Cook, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole and Mrs. Azel A. Packard were in the receiving line with Mrs. Carl L. Watson, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker and officers of the Daughters of Massachusetts.

MRS. WILSON ASKED HERE

An invitation to be a guest at the American Legion convention to be held in Boston next October will be sent to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war President.

A resolution to that effect was passed last night by the Legion executive committee at a meeting at the convention headquarters in the Statler Building.

Members of the executive committee also voted to extend invitations to all holders of congressional medals of honor and to all congressmen, who were service men during the war.

Boston's decorations during the convention will be the most elaborate in the history of the city, according to a report of Col. William Root, of the decorations committee. The entire city will be emblazoned in lights and colors.

U. S. Steel Shows Big Increase in Orders

New York, April 10 (AP)—Unfilled tonnage orders of the United States Steel Corporation on March 31 showed an increase of 90,905 tons over the February 28 total.

Unfilled orders at the end of last month aggregated 4,570,653 tons against 4,479,748 on February 28, and 4,467,710 on January 31. The total for March 31, 1929, was 4,410,718 tons.

Only 13 Persons at Fr. Power's Grave

Only 13 persons visited the grave of Rev. Patrick Power in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, this forenoon. This was the smallest number of pilgrims reported at noon any day since the reopening of the cemetery to the general public. It was expected, however, that the rapid rise in temperature would bring out a much larger number later today.

Blouse All-Important Now That Suits Are Again in Style

SINCE suits continue unquestioned popularity, separate blouses were never more important items in the wardrobe.

While most blouses are made to be worn tuck-in, or as over blouses, a waistline is indicated by means of a belt, shirring or seaming. The choice of a blouse depends on the type of suit with which it is worn. However, two blouses of very different types may often be worn with the same suit to give it a formal or informal aspect.

The most important colors for spring and summer blouses are: Eggshell, white, blue, pink, peach, and some tan and green.

THE softly tailored blouse pictured is of crepe in Opaline pink—the V neck finished in a simulated square vestee front section, forming points fastened with crystal buttons; the pointed cuff also finished with crystal button. A belt of the material is caught with small buckle and a bow, the season's badge of femininity, is posed at the vest's edge.

The brimmed hat worn with this is of fine smooth straw, slightly wider at sides, the crown encircled by narrow cord of grosgrain ribbon, terminating in bow across the shortened back brim.

THE dressier little blouse pictured is of flat crepe in "Angel Blue," very youthful and spring-like, the band outlining the round neckline, and cuffs of the small puff sleeves are each outlined in a row of silk-covered buttons. This is distinctly an overblouse, the lower edge tying in perky bow or knotted ends over each hip.

The small draped hat of soft Milan straw is caught with tiny straw bow at center front.

WHETHER or not there would be any way of indicating a higher waistline for the skirt worn with the tuck-in blouse is a question settled by an ingenious new style that has recently appeared. The skirt wears a cuff over the belt. Thus the belt is a bit lower than the top of the skirt proper, which flares slightly over the tuck-in blouse.

Devise New Way to Liquidate Bankrupt

Providence, R. I., April 10 (AP)—As a result of criticism of the original composition plan, a new scheme for liquidating the affairs of Mandeville, Brooks & Chaffee, local brokerage house which went into voluntary receivership last November, is to be presented, counsel announced at a preliminary hearing in United States Court here today.

Fund Started for Lourie Memorial

At a meeting at the Boston City Club, preliminary plans were formulated for establishing a memorial grove and park in the city of Tel Aviv, Palestine, in memory of Judge David A. Lourie.

It is planned to raise about $50,000 among Boston Jews to perpetuate the memory of Judge Lourie. The 40 Jews at the meeting decided to organize teams which will conduct a quiet canvass for funds.

Letters From Readers

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

Dear sir:

I read with much interest your editorial of last evening with reference to three parties named for Police Commissioner Wilson's position.

As far as the position is concerned, it is strictly a police proposition, and you must agree for anyone to make a success of it, he must be experienced in police work and capable of taking charge (full charge) of such a large department—not a "figurehead" as in some cases in the past would appear to be the case. Now—first of all, this message is not meant to question or reflect in any way on the ability, character or integrity of the three gentlemen so named, but have either the ability to fill a police commissioner's seat?

I have followed with much interest and pleasure, the active interest the Boston Evening American has taken in the "Garrett case," and the thought struck me: why not finish the good work and continue on with the selection of our new police commissioner?

Without question, there are a number of capable, and honest men with police experience, which as you know, cannot be attained overnight, who would take, and lead a crusade in ridding our city of this rum, grafting, dope and racketeering element. I know, or have read of one police head, newly elected this year, who is and has been doing his duty from all angles, and a similiar "house-cleaning" in Boston, would be very pleasing to all law-abiding citizens. Trusting you will receive the note in the spirit it is sent, I am a

Attacks Los Angeles Under Water Wedding

Editor Boston American:

Why not everybody, sane or otherwise, get together and concoct a few more unique ways of having marriage ceremonies performed? Absolutely the most foolish, ridiculous, nonsensical wedding was enacted in Los Angeles recently. A couple, Katie Wilson and J. F. Gullrick, were married, under water, by Rev. Sheldon Shepard, a pastor who apparently couldn't resist having his name appear in the newspapers along with the nuptials, as appearing in the scoop of the year, the sensational, all underwater wedding, the first and only one of its kind in history.

People absolutely sane, have been held under observation, for much less than this ridiculous farce. This absurd trio must have expected a front page newspaper story, and all the glories that accompany such a heroic feat.

Any truly intelligent couple, planning matrimony, may on request be the first couple to be married in the smoke stack of the Leviathan, or on a Lake-st. car, during rush hour.

Alienists: Exceptional opportunities in Los Angeles.

He Believes in Freedom of Opinion

Editor Boston American:

He called wets "hypocritical fanatics." Who did this? Prof. Thomas Nixon Carver, of Harvard University, before the recent N. E. Methodist conference, held in Cambridge.

Four Episcopal bishops must now take this charge to themselves; Bishop Charles Fiske, of Central New York; Bishop Paul Matthews, of New Jersey; Bishop Peter T. Rowe of Alaska, and Bishop Thomas Gailor, of Tennessee, formerly presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

They all believe with others in a modification of the Eighteenth Amendment. No one is so absolutely right that others are absolutely wrong. I am a strong dry, but I believe in freedom of opinion.

Why Not Co-education All the Year Round?

Editor Boston American:

Probably some of your readers may answer this question: Why is it that Harvard University has co-education in its summer school courses and for the six weeks training registered 2700 men and women, but will not tolerate co-education in the regular courses of the university itself?

If co-education is well enough for the Harvard summer schools, why is it not popular in the university courses throughout the year of study?

The late Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president for many years, always disapproved of co-education. Personally, I think that the morals of that university would be greatly improved if co-education were prominent there. If I am not mistaken, I think that Prof. Alfred Worcester, of the university, thinks so, too.

TALK AND SEE BY TELEPHONE AT SAME TIME

New York, April 10 (AP)—Application of television to the telephone, making it possible for the persons engaged in conversation to see each other, was a demonstrated fact today.

Apparatus developed in the laboratories of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company was used yesterday in a series of experiments over a 2½-mile telephone circuit between 195 Broadway in lower Manhattan and the Bell laboratories on West st.

The device was housed in a small compartment resembling a telephone booth.

The speaker seated himself before a small glass screen.

A beam of mild blue light played on the face of the speaker. As the voice of the person at the other end of the line was heard, an image about a foot square appeared on the glass screen showing sharp and clear.

In place of a telephone instrument the television equipment employed a microphone and a loud speaker so that the speaker's face was in full view.

Experimenters said the images were sharp enough to permit changes in expression to be noted and that there was [illegible].

Move Begun to Abolish State Docking Charges

Survey Now Under Way: Eastern Line Adds to Its Service

A survey is under way to determine if the State should abolish its policy of making a charge for docking of ships at the two state piers.

The survey grew out of a desire of steamship companies and others who feel that the state, probably unintentionally, is penalizing shipping.

One prominent freight concern which spends many hundred thousand dollars in Boston each year pays total fees annually of about $70,000.

The East Boston pier and the Commonwealth No. 5 in South Boston are owned by the state. The revenue goes to the state, but the dockage charge practice is a matter of recent years.

The attitude of those who originated the charge was that ships entering the harbor should be expected to pay for the privilege of docking. Others feel that the state is penalizing shipping into Boston at a time when the future of the port hinges on concerted action by the mayor, the Governor and others in authority.

With the change in administration of the Public Works Department, shipping interests desiring this free entry feel encouraged that Governor Allen will give careful consideration to their desires.

With the exception of the two state piers and one other privately owned, all docks are free in the harbor.

Eastern Adds to Sailings

Considerable interest has been aroused by the Eastern Steamship line announcement that three ships will sail between the Hub and New York. One will follow another by an hour or less, picking up the overflow on three days each week. A vast increase in business into and from Boston is anticipated by the company because of the tercentenary celebration.

LONGSHOREMAN'S GAZETTE

CARL MORRISON, Editor

"I read it in the Longshoreman's Gazette."

That's what a seaman will say when asked where he heard certain news. This expression is the old salt's favorite way of saying he heard a rumor or gossip from a seemingly reliable source.

Landlubbers who heard this expression have been known to go to newsstands and ask for a copy of the Longshoreman's Gazette.

Until today this seaman's "publication" has been a popular myth. Beginning today, we hope it will be a popular fact. The landlubber conducting the port of Boston news of the Boston Evening American has decided to label his daily column under this intriguing old expression.

The mythical Gazette has the greatest "circulation" of any "sea newspaper." What could be more fitting than to name our column after this title, since the Boston Evening American has the largest evening circulation in New England."

The editor of this new Gazette hopes that the type of news printed in this column will lead port boosters and others to give real meaning to the remark:

"I read it in the Longshoreman's Gazette."

Is This a Record?

The British motor-ship, Cingalese Prince, unloaded 500 tons of Boston cargo from the Far East during the hours of 9 p. m. to 5 a. m., and then embarked for New York. The ship had been eight days late due to storms, one of which ripped off a ventilator and caused a four day layup for repairs. The unloading was at the New Haven dock, Pier 4.

The editor of the Longshoreman's Gazette would like to hear from port people as to other records. The cargo was heavy—hemp, raw rubber, tea, etc.

emp-tay, etc.
a record?

On the Alert, Boston!

A New York paper tells of arrival of a party of French industrialists, who will tour American manufacturing centers along the Atlantic coast. Boston authorities will want to invite them here. The group of 45 visitors should be interested in our great rail-to-wharf facilities, and our nearness to Europe.

Watch Out, Pat

The wrestling challenge to the Coast Guard by Pat Coyne of the recruiting office was promptly taken up today by "Doc" Lyons of the dispensary of the C. G. at the navy yard. Pat is the largest man in the entire U. S. guard organization and "Doc" is the smallest. If we're wrong the Gazette will make a correction.

IN THIS CORNER DOC LYONS
may the best man win

Pat is a holder of a silver Congressional Honor Medal for saving a shipmate. He is 247 pounds, very little of which is fat. His opponent is only 150 pounds lighter, but says he can toss Pat off any ship and make his rescue himself. "Doc" is noted as a star ball pitcher.

Another Prosperity Item

Since printing the announcement of the doubling of Boston business of the American-Hawaiian lines, we have learned of another "prosperity" item. The Southern Steamship Co., of 263 Summer st., has tripled its Hub business in the past two years. This line, which last year ranked as the second largest carrier of wool from Texas, ships from Philadelphia, but forwards from Boston to that port by the Eastern and the M. & M. lines. L. J. Coughlin, agent, who also represents the Roosevelt line, is a strong port supporter.

The Gazette will be glad to hear from other companies. We want to print a series of such prosperity items to prove that Boston port is far from slipping.

From Germany, Too

A group of a dozen or more leading German editors are studying the port of New York. They will return home and write thousands of words about that port. Many of the stories will have circulation all over Europe. Boston could use some such publicity.

mean delicious crispiness . . . pep for work and play
KELLOGG'S Pep Bran Flakes thrill your taste with their goodness. They're chock-full of the famous flavor of PEP.
At the first spoonful you'll say you never knew bran flakes could be so deliciously crisp.
No wonder the whole family loves them! No wonder mothers like to serve them.
They're rich with the healthful goodness of whole wheat—mildly laxative with the fiber of bran. With milk or cream, a wonderfully balanced food.
Serve Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes often. For pep. For extra zest. All around the table, they'll agree that Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes are better bran flakes.
Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

[illegible]

Brennan said he asked him what he meant and he said the bootleggers had told him about it. They told him some time ago he would be put somewhere where he couldn't do any harm.

WHAT GARRETT SAID

[illegible]

"Is that right, Ollie?" Brennan said he asked. And he said, Yes. Brennan said one of the other fellows said Sergt. McKenzie. Somebody said "Is that right?" and he replied "Yes, he was put down there in the first place to do nothing but spy on me," that was all the conversation at that time.

[illegible] said, "I am going on my vacation tonight. When I return I will make [illegible]

[illegible]

Brennan said Garrett went downstairs, Capt. Patterson took him by [illegible]

"I don't give a ——, I'll give a statement to any press that will print it. That's all the appreciation Herbert A. Wilson has for my nine years of hard work down here. I have made 17,000 arrests during that time, working night and day."

Brennan said he then rushed to the commissioner's office to see what he had to say on Garrett's statement on his lack of appreciation [illegible] forever. He's been there long enough. He's become pretty well known to the bootleggers. It's time that there should be a change. I never found fault with Garrett's work."

Brennan told of going to Dr. [illegible] office when Garrett was [illegible]

"I'm afraid Wilson's got a dictaphone on us." I laughed and Woodside whispered, 'We are afraid he is trying to get evidence on Ollie.'"

So he whispered as long as they wanted to and asked the doctor

GARRETT BLAMED

[illegible]

"What's the matter, Chappell, didn't you see my lawyer in the last two or three days?"

[illegible]

He admitted he made individual investigations for his own use, and he became acquainted with some girls, one of them known as "Little Evelyn."

Q.—You introduced her to your folks, didn't you? A.—No, sir.

[illegible]

The witness admitted "Little Evelyn" was one of the four girls arrested in a raid he testified to, and she went to the superintendent of police and made accusations against him.

[illegible] came in contact with [illegible] graft, that he saw Garrett at the farm supposed to be owned by him in Hingham and that he went there to satisfy himself regarding rumors that Garrett had nothing to do with the dairy concern [illegible]

Patterson described it as a dairy farm with 35 cows and a mail order barn "which you could buy for $800, which comes in parts and which can be nailed together."

The hearing was then suspended until tomorrow.

SPEAKS HIS MIND

LAURENCE STALLINGS

shows you the Aftermath of

The Big Parade

DEVIL-MAY-CARE Lieutenant Pancoast, A.E.F., admitted to his chaplain that "every town I was in I went for some girl."

There was one French girl, however, whose lips—when he kissed them—left no stain of rouge—a girl too fine to deserve her fate . . .

Ten years after the war, Pancoast went back to France. You thrill and choke as you read how the love and agony of the past came back to him.

Here is the material for a war novel—as vivid as war itself—condensed to a brief masterpiece.

Laurence Stallings, author of "The Big Parade," wrote this story, "Return of Pan." Months from now you will see it in fiction anthologies—but COSMOPOLITAN, of course, is the first to give it to you.

Also in May COSMOPOLITAN

Divorce in 9 Minutes: T[illegible] ten minutes . . . One can get divorced in nine minutes. Frazier Hunt went through the marriage and divorce machine in Soviet Russia so that he could tell you about it—in May Cosmopolitan.

To Be Taken Before Sailing: As [illegible] of Rollo the Norseman or [illegible] Irvin S. Cobb tells travelers of the foolishness of guides and guidebooks in his best humor-and-horse-sense vein.

Helen Wills tells business girls how to retain their looks, figures, and health, despite office routine. She describes simple exercise movements she herself has invented.

Rupert Hughes, in "Lovely Liar," goes to the heart of the mother-and-daughter problem.

A meaty and timely Ray Long editorial . . . Amos and Andy as seen by O. O. McIntyre. And so this issue of Cosmopolitan sparkles and impresses through 240 pages.

MR. COOLIDGE has been a private citizen for a year. He has looked back over the events of that year, and in the forceful, direct—and at times epigrammatic—style that characterizes everything he writes, he tells his fellow Americans just what he thinks and feels.

We, of course, are proud that he again has chosen Cosmopolitan as the medium to convey his message to the country.

Daring Story of Eternal Love Triangle

Ardeth Carroll, beauty, lives in the drab home of her Aunt Stella. Neil Burke, downstairs, courts Ardeth as his. She is uncertain. She yearns for a fuller life. Ardeth sees the man of her dreams, Ken Gleason. Neil is furiously jealous. Jeanette Parker, society girl, plans to use Ardeth in a scheme for revenge. She opens a shop and engages Ardeth to run it. Ardeth sees that she can never marry Neil. Ken comes to the shop and meets Ardeth. Both are secretly impressed. Sunday they spend on Ken's houseboat. Their first kiss. Then Ardeth becomes jealous of Cecilie, Jeanette's sister. Ken tells her there is nothing to it, but later breaks an engagement and she imagines he is with her rival. She drives out to Falls on the Beach with Tom Corbett, who is in love with her, and there she sees Ken in the party with Cecilie.

CHAPTER 30

T[illegible]

[illegible]

Headlights glanced on the snow. The roar of [illegible] motor [illegible] dying out. He was gone. And the little group in the cabin seemed oddly forlorn.

"Poor Ken," murmured Mary. "If it's the end it will go hard with Ken. He's devoted to his mother."

Was it her fancy, thought Ardeth, or did Mary's gaze brush her compassionately for a moment as she spoke.

Later that night, when she lay awake on the narrow cot [illegible]

[illegible]

Like a painful dream [illegible] he reached the apartment he [illegible] with his mother. [illegible] He expected a nurse [illegible] the doctor perhaps. Something of a shock to find Cecile Parker before him. Cecile in a soft grey blue chiffon thing which made her white oval of face and the Naples yellow waves of her hair soft and appealing. Gone the orange lipstick. The mauve eye shadow was missing, too, and her pale grey eyes met his in sweetest sympathy.

In response to his amazed question she answered in a low voice: "I've been here since 5. As soon as she was taken ill."

"How is she?" Ken's voice was a queer croak.

The girl shrugged slender shoulders. "She may not know you."

[illegible] As soon as Ken entered the bedroom where he found a white uniformed nurse in attendance, his mother opened her eyes.

[illegible]

"Spider Kelly," his tongue faltered over the old nickname. "Where's your grit? I'm here, dearest. You must get well. You can't throw me down like th[illegible]"

The faintest flicker of a smile touched the wrinkled face. A shallow sigh. The eyelids closed.

At Ken's clasp the nurse moved to the bed. Then her low encouraging whisper bringing the color to the man's face: "She's asleep. Best thing that could happen. Here, be here. If she wakes and finds you here it's better than medicine."

Hours ticked away by the blue china clock on the bureau. Hours when the man sat unstirring in the chair, his brown hand warm over the wrinkled one on the bed.

All the world receded, leaving only this lighted room—an island of reality floating in a sea of chaos.

"I have always been concerned with the many small industries and small towns outside the metropolitan area. Of course that area will undergo a natural growth, due to its compactness and business facilities. Such a growth in the smaller and scattered towns is, of course, slower, but I believe that business there will develop."

I feel certain that the New England textile industry has started to return to normal conditions. The situation in that business has been alarming but I see that an increasingly large number of small textile concerns, closed down by business depression, are reopening. I am sure that they will prosper."

Married Life, Endless Chain of Triangles

[illegible]

It's impossible to estimate correctly just what percentage of American marriages are not at some time or other menaced by a third person, but I would be willing to wager that not more than 5 per cent of the total of American marriages avoid an experience of this nature, Miss Baldwin asserts.

Most triangles peter out however because all affairs ultimately progress to a point when definite action is inevitable. And then comes the question that stumps and stops nine-tenths of these little domestic dramas: WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO NOW?

Rather than face scandal and divorce and the tawdry necessity [illegible] the two kiss each other goodby while faithful wives or hubbies remain in blissful ignorance of all they've missed and wonder at the renewed and solicitous attention of their spouse.

FEELS FOR 'POOR DEVIL ON FOOT'

[illegible]

In State highway construction no provision is made for the poor devil on foot and I am inclined to believe this is responsible for a large proportion of our accidents," said the mayor.

Take that wonderful highway, Fellsway boulevard, formerly the Southern artery. It passed through a section where there are at present about 700 homes.

The city has put in sidewalks, but that isn't the whole story. The highway in places cuts through what were once cliffs and banks, and the city has to put in retaining walls as well as sidewalks.

"It isn't safe to walk on the highways at night without a lantern and then it isn't any too safe.

The State highways are nothing less than racetracks.

My idea is that the expenditure on State highway construction should be cut 25 per cent or so for two or three years and the money put into providing sidewalks for pedestrians everywhere."

"Clear up your skin, dear, and you will be popular, too"

Skin troubles and sallow complexion speak of body weakness — a deficiency in the red-blood-cells.

If you desire a clear skin you must keep your blood in good condition.

A lovely, clear skin is within your reach

may be found in every good drug store in America. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. Sold in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

© S.S.S. Co.

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely, clear skin is within the reach of all. To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The natural way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.

General Electric Company President Speaker at Boston Chamber of Commerce

[illegible]

"New England may not have great wealth in its natural resources nor a fertile soil," he said, "but it has tradition, character and ingenuity."

[illegible]

"We are firm in the faith, especially in the electrical industry, that the needs of 125,000,000 people, increasing in number and demands, will keep our industry and commerce constantly on the general uptrend."

[illegible]

"In the last eight years the General Electric Co. has increased its investment in manufacturing in New England 40 per cent; its manufactured output has increased 100 per cent. These two figures show the increased efficiency of operation which is true among manufacturing companies in general. No doubt in New England many can show a better ratio even than this.

At the same time the General Electric payroll in New England increased 110 per cent, showing that earnings of workingmen increased more rapidly than the manufactured output.

It may also be of interest to you to know that, though in New England we are not employing so many people today as we were at the peak of production last fall, seasonal variations must be considered and we are employing more people today in New England than we were at the same time a year ago."

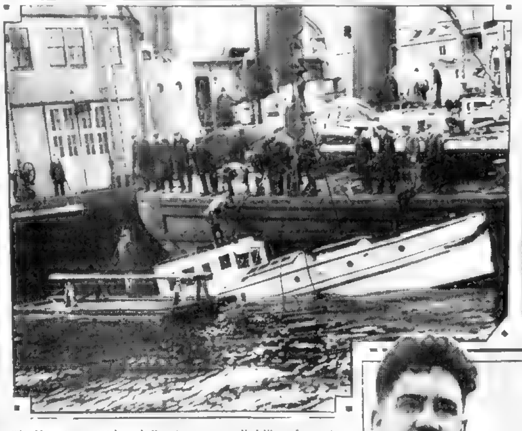
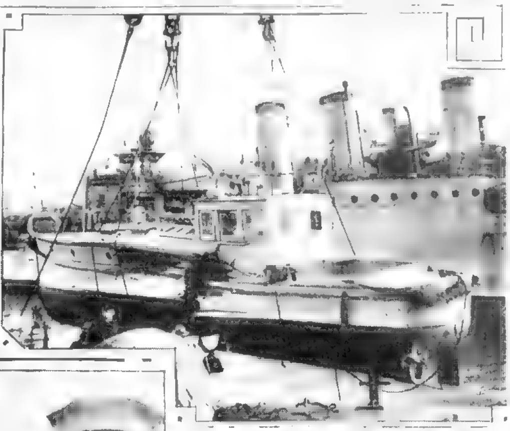
Stout Navy Craft Goes Under After Meeting Ferryboat in Harbor



The Navy transport launch Constance was rolled like a log and capsized after being cracked amidship by the ferryboat Newtowne in the harbor. The Constance is seen as she was being righted in preparation for taking her from water.



Here's Constance, with a gaping wound in her side after she was hoisted from the water. Hundreds of commuters between East Boston and the city proper watched in terror as the ferryboat ran down the launch. The battered craft was towed to the Navy Yard. (Staff photos.)

Boatswain Fred Jarva and Engineer J. J. Pickerton, the crew of Constance, had to leap for their lives when the crash happened. Aside from minor cuts and a ducking, however, they were unharmed.

Smart Move, Getting Grimes

SMART move, that of the Braves, in picking up expensive Burleigh Grimes from the Pittsburgh club. Burleigh is an old man, in the baseball way of looking at things, but his rubber right arm is just as young as ever. He can win a dozen games for any club and his acquisition proves that the Tribal heads are on the level when they say they are willing to spend millions to get a club.

[illegible]

For Grimes is a real asset, [illegible] has been had and the money might have been frittered away [illegible]

Now the Tribe can keep Burleigh [illegible] back a lot of games onto the [illegible]

GRIMES, plus the extra hitting the Braves have collected, will manufacture a ball club for the Wigwam, unless we miss our guess. And the purchase price will come right back.

Burleigh Will Hustle for Tribe

MISTER GRIMES has been [illegible] around the big show for a long, long time. This will be his 17th year in the National League. He is one of the three remaining spitballers. And [illegible] he has been a winner [illegible]

[illegible] Pirates. He had a good year with the New York club, but was let out in '28 when his talent would have won a pennant for McGraw. He's a hard-boiled, outspoken individual, but an honest worker, always.

Burleigh will get along with McKechnie and Judge Fuchs, if the boys decide to keep him here. He will not stall and loaf because he is hooked up with a tail-ender. His way will be to hustle more than ever, to make the big boys sorry they were foolish enough to let him go.

M. Grimes should make the Braves a sure bet for seventh place or better.

THE Grimes deal is almost as startling as the Hornsby stunt of a few years back, and should mean much more to the Tribe.

Give Credit to Fight Racket

WHO says fighting does nothing for the advancement of civilization and citizenship? An old bird blew into the office.

"Where is the sporting editor?" he asked with a touch of brogue we will leave you to imagine.

"Right here," was the reply, like a flash and everything.

"Will you be pleased to tell me when Kilrane and John L. Sullivan fought?"

After shuffling through the guides, we discovered that it was in 1889. But the boy friend wanted to know the month, which made us curious.

"You see, it's like this," he informed. "I'm taking out naturalization papers, and I don't know just when I was after coming here from Ireland. But I recollect the boys on the boat were talking about the Sullivan-Kilrane fight, and were coming across to see it. So when I find out I'll be able to tell them."

Now another citizen has been manufactured, a Democrat, all due to the fight racket.

Everett High Will Send Team to Penn.

Permission has been granted the Everett high school relay team to compete in the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival, April 25 and 26, at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

The party of about 10, headed by Coaches Denny Gilden and Ralph Colson, will leave April 24. Everett has been entered in the Class C mile relay for high schools.

BRAVES BUY BURLEIGH GRIMES

By BILL CONNELL

RICHMOND, Va., April 10.—Bill McKechnie and his Boston Braves are here today for their fifth and final barnstorming tour [illegible] with the Washington Senators. After the game this afternoon the Braves board [illegible] jump to Boston.

[illegible]

Bill Connell

[illegible]

Grimes had [illegible] to the Pirates [illegible] Robles, Cal., training camp, Grimes is said to have gotten along [illegible] with the management of the Pittsburgh [illegible]

Grimes Had Long and Varied Career

[illegible] Clear Lake, Wis., August 18, 18[illegible]. He bats and throws right-handed, is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 17[illegible].

Birmingham was the scene of his operations in 1915 and 191[illegible] He won 27 games for the [illegible] and [illegible] 21 in 1916 and part of 1916 when he was brought up by the Pirates. He won two and lost [illegible] that season for Dreyfuss.

In 1917 he won three and [illegible] 16, and the next year, and for eight more years, he remained with Brooklyn. His last two years with Brooklyn were 1925 and 1926 and both were losing years. In New York in 1927 he won 19 and lost eight. His records with the Pirates in 1928 and 1929 were respectively 25 wins against 14 losses and 17 wins against seven losses.

In earned runs allowed per nine innings he ranked second in the National League last year with an average of 3.13 earned tallies per nine innings.

Percy Jones won seven and lost [illegible]

Pittsburgh Fans Stunned Over Loss of Grimes

Pittsburgh, April 10 (AP)—Pittsburgh baseball fans were stunned today by the news that Burleigh Grimes, ace of the Pirates' pitching staff, had been traded to the Boston Braves.

It was known here the breach between the spitball artist and his employers had not lessened despite numerous conferences throughout the late winter months, but the trade was wholly unlooked for.

President Barney Dreyfuss said he looked upon the trade as the best way out of the difficulties when Grimes refused to come to terms, and he let it be known that Percy Jones, who comes to the Pirates in the trade, was one of two men selected by Manager Jewel Ens as the pitcher to be sought for Grimes.

Chicago Fans Pleased Grimes Has Joined Braves

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—Chicago Cub baseball fans are disappointed that Pittsburgh didn't trade or sell Burleigh Grimes to the Cubs instead of the Boston Braves, [illegible] the spitballer no longer [illegible] Pirates.

The Cubs managed to get one decision over Grimes last season while he was working for that close [illegible]. The fans figure Burleigh will not be so hard to beat as a Brave hurler, and that he will defeat Pittsburgh as often as he beats the Cubs.

Fuchs Tells Why He Purchased Grimes

"The Boston Braves obtained Burleigh Grimes in transferring the services of Percy Jones and with one exception, the largest cash consideration paid for the services of any player purchased by the Braves.

We feel that with skillful and experienced knowledge in the art of pitching, Grimes will not only be of service himself but will be instrumental in assisting Manager McKechnie in his daily effort in helping the younger pitchers as well as the youthful prospects that he is retaining in hopes of eventually bringing a winning combination to Boston.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

[illegible]

[illegible] maximum of flight power [illegible] meantime no impression of having had much to do with it. No special exertion or effort appears to go into such swings. Trying to hit with all your strength not only indicates a complete lack of correct golfing form, but it produces ever-increasing proof that you are engaged in a losing battle with the ball, you are fighting the ball, and in any such fight you are doomed to be licked because the golf ball has more lasting staying powers in that fight than any [illegible] ever invented by man. [illegible] perfect golfer ever has beaten it to date. Therefore think about your swing and design to keep it in order, which reverses the usual order of things completely. Most golfers think how hard they are going to hit the ball—always a golfing error.

OHIO BOXERS SPENT NIGHT ON ROAD

EIGHT members of the Cincinnati-Cleveland boxing team [illegible] in the national championships at the Arena the last three nights left for [illegible]

[illegible] Jack Sharkey, American heavyweight champion, was reached on the phone and he invited the Cleveland [illegible] to put up at the [illegible] in town at his expense. [illegible]

"I never realized that anyone who had anything to do with amateur sports were so cold hearted."

Forced to Take What A. A. U. Offered Them

We have been forced to take what they had a mind to toss at us every time we have come to this city. We went to the president of the New England body of the A. A. U. and he said 'What can I do about it, if you haven't enough money to stay for the night at a hotel.'

"Well, we are on our way to Cleveland and we will tell the whole world just how we were treated in Boston by the officials of the New England A. A. U. who have had this tournament bottled up year after year.

"We want to thank Jack Sharkey. He has a heart. But why make Sharkey our godfather?"

"It seems reasonable enough that they could have found space enough somewhere in this city for a gathering of fine fellows to snatch a wink of sleep before starting home.

"Jack Pallat, who is on the program as from Cincinnati, won the heavyweight crown in less than a round. He has a medal. It is a wonder we were able to take it home with us."

Kenney Denies Boxers' Charges

Pres. William K. Kenney of the New England A. A. U. appeared greatly surprised when he heard these charges today and lost no time in denying them.

"The Cleveland-Cincinnati team received its expenses for the entire trip either Tuesday night or yesterday morning. The sum donated was enough to give every boxer from these two cities the best of food and lodging during his stay in the Hub if handled correctly.

"I imagine that the money was spent unwisely. Probably the group from one city took all the dough and left the other crowd out in the cold.

"The A. A. U. officials are in no way responsible for whatever happened."

Dusek Downs Hagen

New York, April 10 (INS)—Rudy Dusek, Nebraska heavyweight wrestler, today boasted victory over George Hagen, the former marine mat star.

N. E. League to Pay and Sign Players

Portland, Me., April 10—The most radical departure in the handling of ball players in an organized league is to be insisted upon by Pres. Claude E. Davidson of the New England League this year.

The league itself will handle the signing of players this year and will pay off the ball chasers on the 1st and 15th of every month, thereby holding a check on the salary limits of the teams.

In other years the New England has been troubled by inflated salaries. Davidson also announced that at least seven of the eight clubs were definitely in line.

NEWEST MEMBER OF TRIBE

[illegible] Boston [illegible] one of the best Braves teams [illegible] has known for over [illegible] Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Tribe, has [illegible] Burleigh Grimes, spitballing [illegible] Pittsburgh Pirates. Fuchs had to give a pitcher, Percy Lee Jones, and large sum of money to get Grimes. Fuchs feels that Grimes will be valuable not only as a winning pitcher, but also as a [illegible] younger members of the Tribe [illegible] Grimes [illegible] the Pirates [illegible] year when he won [illegible] the Braves are [illegible] to be right up among the leaders and will have [illegible] chance of finishing [illegible] this season.

Mr. Mack talked to Pallat and the latter agreed to come back to Boston for three bouts.

Suntan still holds the attention of many women despite the fact that beauty and fashion centers have said NO in a decided emphatic manner. Nothing is so fatal to beauty as to be on last year's beauty wagon and suntan [illegible] been relegated to the [illegible] of yesterday.

[illegible] in the season [illegible] when the [illegible] gets short way [illegible] a certainty that suntan make-up will not be popular at any time during the coming months. The reason being the almost impossible results that we achieved by its use. Nothing so detracts from the charm of an ensemble as to have evidence of the method used obvious. And that is exactly what happened in 99 out of 100 cases of drug store tan.

Hesitates to Tell Age

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Recently I met a young man 22 years old whom I like very much. I am just 16. I know he is going to ask me my age, and I hate to tell him. I know that he cares for me as he already has told me so. Please help me with this problem.

WORRIED

IF you are afraid, my dear child, of losing your grown up admirer in case he discovers how young you are, why can't you laugh [illegible] on keeping your age a secret—at least until he knows you well enough to forgive you for this delightful fault of youth. It seems to me very unlikely, however, that he hasn't already [illegible] your age. I believe he likes you [illegible] in spite of it and that [illegible] for you [illegible] and that [illegible] have no problem at all.

THE WEEKLY STORY FOR BOYS and GIRLS

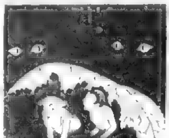
Tom Toddy and Tillie Toddy

Two Entertaining Cats Entertain

By UNCLE TODDY

Copyright, 1930, by Paul Wing

[illegible]



Well, that's where we find [illegible] a very scary [illegible]

Tom and Tillie Toddy and Lorraine and David all woke up.

"Did you hear that?" Tom asked.

"No," said Tillie.

"Not I," said Lorraine.

"No [illegible]," said David. "What [illegible]

[illegible] But it [illegible]

[illegible] said Lorraine.

[illegible] again. And [illegible] heard it. It was awful. First there was a low growl, and then a long shrill [illegible] with a sharp hiss at the end of it.

Four hearts jumped right up [illegible] and then [illegible] down again clear to the bottoms of their feet. They were scared. They were so scared that they couldn't even cry, though they all wanted to.

There they were, all alone out in the middle of a great forest. And it was long after midnight. And there were those terrible sounds—coming closer, it seemed to them.

At first they all lay perfectly still, afraid even to move. They were scared right out of their wits.

Then Tom Toddy and David, leaving their wits behind them, started to creep carefully and silently over to the edge of the leaf, where they could peek out and see what was happening. For it was worse to be still, not knowing what was going on, than to peep out and see no matter [illegible] terrible things they might find.

So they looked out. And there, no farther away than across your mother's kitchen, they saw four terrible, gleaming, shining eyes. That's all they could see. Nothing but four big bright eyes. And Tom and David thought, at first, that the eyes were looking straight at them. But then, as they became more accustomed to the darkness, they began to see that the eyes weren't looking at them at all. They were looking at each other.

And they saw that, behind each pair of eyes, was a big black body with a long tail that switched to and fro very rapidly. And each body had a great snarling mouth with long sharp teeth that were showing, angrily. And four feet with terrible, sharp claws.

When Tom Toddy and David first saw these great beasts they were more frightened than ever. But when they saw that the two beasts were not looking at their tent at all, but instead, were intent on each other they became less scared—and more interested.

And finally they became so much more interested than scared that they beckoned to Lorraine and Tillie to come and see what was going on.

So Lorraine and Tillie crept over to the edge of the leaf tent and the four of them sat watching the two great beasts.

"Why, they look like cats," Lorraine whispered.

"I believe they are cats," Tillie whispered, "but aren't they big ones?"

"It isn't that they are so big," whispered Tom Toddy, "it is that we are so small. That's why they look so big."

The two cats kept growling and spitting at each other. First they would growl and spit. And then they would walk cautiously around each other, never once taking their eyes off each other. And then they would growl and spit some more.

"I wish they would do something," whispered David.

And just then they did. They did a lot of things. One of them jumped at the other and the other fell to the ground on his back, growling and yowling.

And then they would roll over so that the one on the bottom would be the one on top. And they rolled over and over. And the one on top would growl and spit and the one on the bottom would growl and yowl. You can just imagine how it sounded.

Then, all of a sudden, the cats both sprang to their feet and each one grabbed the other one's tail in his mouth and they chased each other 'round and 'round and 'round in a circle until Lorraine began to think they would never stop.

Just as suddenly and unexpectedly, they did stop. And looking at Lorraine and David and Tom and Tillie, one of them said, quite pleasantly:

"Well, how did you like that?"

"Fine!" said David, who liked to watch a fight—even though he knew it was not at all nice.

"I didn't think it was at all nice!" said Lorraine.

"Of course it wasn't nice," said the cat. "But wasn't it entertaining?"

"Well, maybe it was," admitted Lorraine, doubtfully, "But I don't think you are very good cats."

"[illegible]," said the other [illegible]. "Of course, we aren't good. We are bad!"

And he spat to show how bad he was.

Now by that time morning was [illegible] to get [illegible]

"I'm hungry," David said.

[illegible] at once.

"Well," said the cat, "that's easy [illegible] to Mr. Toddy's restaurant."

"Where's that?" Lorraine asked.

"Not far, not far," said the cat. [illegible]

So Lorraine and Tom Toddy climbed to the back of one of the cats and David and Tillie Toddy climbed to the back of the other cat, and off they went, quicker than scat, racing down the forest path in the direction of Toddy Town.

Now I think that was a very nice thing for the two bad cats to do. And you can see that they weren't so bad, after all.

Very soon the two cats came to a stop at a big tree that had a [illegible] and over the [illegible] "Mr. Toddy [illegible]"

[illegible] jumped off the backs of the cats.

"Good-bye," said the cat who had been doing all the talking. "Have a good time in Toddy Town while you get there."

"Good-bye," said Tom Toddy, "and thank you for the ride."

And the two entertaining cats whisked their tails and trotted off down the path.

Just then a cheery voice spoke from the door of the tree: "Good morning," it said. "Come in and sit down. You must be tired. I am Mr. Toddy."

And looking around the children saw a jolly looking little man with fat, pink cheeks and a big apron that completely covered him from just under his third and last chin clear down to his shoe tops.

"Thank you," said Tom Toddy, "we aren't tired, but we are all hungry."

"Well, well," said Mr. Toddy, "there's very little difference. But whether you're tired or hungry, I've got something that will fix you up."

"What's that?" asked David.

"That," said Mr. Toddy, "is Toddy and it's the best thing there is for hungry girls and boys, [illegible] things that they need to keep them from growing big and strong and healthy. [illegible]"

[illegible] Mr. Toddy [illegible] tree [illegible]

And next week I will tell you what happens when they get to [illegible] Toddy Town [illegible]

Don't forget that you can hear Uncle Toddy tell about the adventures of Tom and Tillie Toddy and Lorraine and David by listening in at radio station WEEI every Thursday at half-past five in the afternoon. And here is something you ought to ask your mother to read.

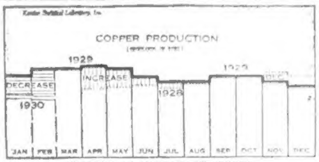
Copper Production



PRODUCTION OF PRIMARY COPPER IN THOUSANDS OF TONS

By HARLOW PETERS

(Irving Fisher Service)

The copper industry's grim determination to hold a set price level has contributed to a steady decline in copper production since last April. This has continued with no let-up, until now the copper kings find themselves in a position where it will soon be necessary for them to unload.

During the past year, and earlier, copper producers added new equipment, and generally prepared themselves for a much larger production schedule than formerly, due to reports of forthcoming buying in big quantities by European countries.

This buying never materialized so that the copper companies have extra inventories on hand, and a nice assortment of machines which are not improved by idleness.

Of course, the native unmined copper remains secure in the hills, but unless it is mined there will never be any chance of its bringing 18 cents a pound.

Natural Gas

In The Front Rank of Investment Opportunities—

MISSOURI-KANSAS PIPE LINE COMPANY

Common Stock

Four fundamental factors place the stock of this important natural gas system in the front rank of investment opportunities: Attractive net earnings that are substantially increasing month by month; a strong cash position; very large gas reserves; and a program of expansion that is rapidly making the Company one of the outstanding leaders among natural gas utilities.

Dividends of 2½% in stock are being paid quarterly —equivalent to an annual stock dividend of 10%.

Shows Little Business How It Can Live

Form Associations Within the Law Along Lines Here Presented

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, April 10—Can little businesses live by getting together through trade associations? Many big businesses are getting together through outright combination.

The law from all appearances has been frowning less upon gigantic mergers than upon efforts by independents to form trade organizations having practical value in enabling them to obtain reasonable profit-yielding prices and checking ruinous trade practices.

One senses, however, that the pendulum of public opinion is beginning to swing against endless mammoth mergers and in favor of the maintenance of business of more modest size.

Suggestions yesterday were offered as to how "independents" can get together and co-operate effectively in self-protection and for the good of the country—without running foul of the law.

Benjamin A. Javits, New York lawyer, trust law authority and author of the book "Make Everybody Rich: Industry's New Goal," told the Commerce Committee of the American Bar Association at its annual meeting yesterday how trade associations could be organized and conducted "to extricate American industry from its present profitless and jobless prosperity."

After analyzing Supreme Court rulings, Mr. Javits declared that trade associations should be conducted along these lines:

"First—The trade association must have a uniform cost accounting system.

"Second—Each member of a trade association would have to bind himself to set aside certain agreed percentage of the net profits of his business to be redistributed among or used for the benefit of his employes. This fund to be used either to increase wages or shorten hours by adding more workers.

"Third—The members of the trade association bind themselves to pay a certain percentage of their gross sales into the association.

"With enlightened self-interest and public weal thus intelligently mated in a trade association, the court should, I believe," said Mr. Javits, "permit it:

"First—To make binding agreements not to sell below cost.

"Second—To enforce proper trade practice rules or codes of ethics.

"Third—To empower an arbitration board to enforce with the same force and effect as a court of law trade practice rules, codes of ethics or other agreements in the 'public interest' as herein set forth by the power to assess damages not to exceed certain liquidated amounts agreed upon in advance in a trade association agreement."

He added: "There is no interference with the liberty of contract, since anyone can remain outside of the trade association and compete with it if he believes it in his own best interest.

"I have not seen a case in which it was shown to the court that a trade association's efforts were directed toward high wages and low prices as well as to its profit. Were that disclosed, I believe that the Supreme Court would declare that such an association's aims were not hostile to the public and would not declare it illegal provided its activities were in line with these aims."

He concluded: "If business men will learn that profits lie in business co-operation, that profits lie in giving the public quality and low prices, that profits lie in the elimination of waste, that profits lie in giving employes not only a living wage but a cultural wage, that profits lie in the creation of new buying power and new markets and that profits lie in co-operating with the government to these ends, American business will exempt itself from the operations of the anti-trust-laws."

Big Business is inclined these days to take too much for granted. It is not taking sufficient pains to convince the public that what it is doing is in the public interest—that it is in anybody's interest except its own. Especially has Big Business failed to satisfy the people that its modern methods do not gravely swell unemployment.

If little business can get together in self-defense, and with reasonable regard for the public interest, neither Congress nor the courts are likely to interpose obstacles.

HOPEFUL ERA SEEN FOR OIL

New York, April 10—Prospects of a "most hopeful" solution of the oil industry's problems are seen by Sir Henry Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Co., who arrived on the Bremen.

He discussed overproduction and conservation, asserting his belief that most American petroleum producers were "making an honest effort to set the industry in order" and that their efforts were apparently bearing fruit.

"Of course," he continued, "there is still considerable to be accomplished, but, broad and intelligent reasoning should in the end prevail.

"Current oil production in the United States is still out in line to some extent with consumption. I am still of the firm conviction that drilling of wells in the United States should be done on a more scientific basis and with greater precaution than at present. This would result in greater economy and better conservation of the country's oil resources."

Expansion Program to Take Millions

New York, April 10—Initial step in Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co.'s expansion in Birmingham, Ala., district this year is announced by H. C. Ryding, president. It will involve expenditure of between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000. Mr. Ryding said work would be started immediately on improvements on plant at Fairfield.

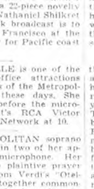
At the Radio Dial

By THE RADIO EDITOR

THURSDAY NIGHT is "mid-week," and Friday night is "week-end," according to labels on two new broadcast series sponsored on competitive networks by the Eastman Kodak Company. Columbia gets the break tonight with the first of the "mid-week" programs, starting at 10 o'clock. N. B. C.'s Blue Chain follows tomorrow night with the first of the "week-end" broadcasts.



Helen Nugent

TONIGHT'S Kodak Hour serves up that ancient radio institution, the crooning contralto, in triple doses. Three contraltos, Helen Nugent, Harriet Lee and Charlotte Harriman, will put their heads together to vocalize familiar melodies, such as Del Riego's "Homing" and "other selections especially rich in low-pitched harmonies." Bob Haring, and a 25-piece orchestra, together with a male quartet, will supply additional tunes.

If the N. B. C. announcer successfully jumps the vocal hurdle of presenting Countess Olga Medolago Albani, soprano, the audience of WBZ and the Blue Chain will hear the remainder of the sister snapshot program at 10:30 tomorrow night. This will involve another male quartet and a 22-piece novelty orchestra, led by Nathaniel Shilkret. Still a third Kodak broadcast is to be issued at San Francisco at the same relative hour for Pacific coast audiences.

ROSA PONSELLE is one of the few great box-office attractions among the singers of the Metropolitan Opera Co. these days. She raises her voice before the microphone in tonight's RCA Victor hour on the Red Network at 10.

THE METROPOLITAN soprano becomes operatic in two of her approaches to the microphone. Her first effort is the plaintive prayer of Desdemona from Verdi's "Otello." This isn't altogether commonplace. But in the final number she conjures up the fast-perishing hurdy-gurdy with the air "Tacea la Notte," from Verdi's Il "Trovatore." Without a doubt these numbers will be sung surpassingly well, but what an opportunity the program sponsors are missing to give the public a broadcast of extraordinary interest.

HEX supplants sex as murder motive in tonight's detective thriller. Columbia stations will carry the shivery details of a recent mid-West witch-killing at 9 o'clock. The tale does not concern the recent New York State affair, involving an artist, his wife and two Indian women. It is an earlier story, whose scene is laid in Kalamazoo, Mich. The victim was the widow of a clergyman.

"You can't make apple pie out of prunes," exclaimed Andy, regusted at his failure to get expression into the face of Amos while the latter was practicing his lodge speech under Andy's critical eye, last night.

"Use the face you got, and make the best of it," Andy finally advised his distressed partner.

Amos has the sympathy of everybody in the world, and Andy gets all the brickbats. Sometimes it's no wonder he's regusted. It probably doesn't help much, either, to realize that his troubles and failures are of his own making. Somehow, I wish Andy could get a break one of these days, no matter how undeserved.

Ambassador Dawes' voice raced the broad reaches of the Atlantic as successfully last night as did his ancestor's steed in the non-stop run from Boston to Concord 155 years ago come next week Friday. The general's speech came into the banquet schedule of the Chicago Better Business Bureau with as much precision as though he stood beside the toastmaster, rather than four thousand miles away. For the purposes of picturing Chicago's advance in well-being, the speaker reached only 20 years back into the realms of history. But that was far enough to show the strides which the great Midwest metropolis has taken toward a goal which may make it a world leader.

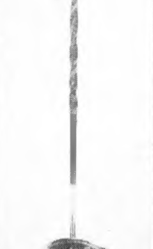
Daily Antique

No. 68



This punch ladle may be of pre-revolutionary origin. It has been in the possession of members of the same family since the time of the Georges of England. Embedded in the bowl of the ladle is a coin of the time of George II. The piece is made of silver and gold, with a handle of whalebone. This combination of silver and whalebone is of a very early type of workmanship. It was made in England by a silversmith from a design drawn by one George Rand. From the Rand family it passed to the Riddle family with whom the Rands intermarried. Mary Ann Riddle, who died many years ago at the age of 98, brought it to America after her marriage to Robert Mearns, sea captain, ship builder and land owner. From her it has passed to her grandson, R. B. Young, of 1494 Massachusetts ave., Arlington.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, provided the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

KODAK MID-WEEK HOUR

CROWDS PRAISE NEW STORE

Crowds flocking to the new Lamson & Hubbard store at 304 Boylston st., near Arlington st., are testifying their appreciation of the first building after the modern New York style to be erected in Boston.

The building is of six stories, running through to Providence st., with an entrance on that street facing the Hotel Statler, and was erected at a cost of $300,000.

Three of the floors are given over to the selling of goods and on the others are located the executive offices, factory and work rooms, and storage rooms. There are 12,000 feet of selling space.

The motif of the striking Boylston st. facade is of pilasters and simple parapet of rich Mankato stone which frames an almost entire mass of glass, the doors being marked by panels of black carved glass. This arrangement gives to the interior of the building unfailing light. Natural stone quarried in Minnesota is used.

Britain Sends Trade Treaty to Soviets

London, April 10 (AP)—Draft of a new Anglo-Russian trade treaty will go to Moscow next week for approval of the Soviet government. If ratified, the London Daily Express said, trade between the two countries will be resumed shortly with Saul Bron, former head of the Amtorg Trading Corp. of New York as chief Soviet trade representative in Great Britain.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912, of Boston Evening American, published daily except Sunday, at Boston, Mass., for April 1, 1930. State of Massachusetts, County of Suffolk, ss.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared M. C. Priest, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Business Manager of the Boston Evening American, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 411, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher—E. A. Westfall, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston, Mass.

Managing Editor—T. A. Robertson, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston, Mass.

Business Manager—M. C. Priest, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston, Mass.

2. That the owner is: (If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation, the names and addresses of the individual owners must be given. If owned by a firm, company, or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as those of each individual member, must be given.)

The New England Newspaper Publishing Co., 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston, Mass., owns the Boston Evening American.

The Star Holding Corp., of New York City owns all the stock of the New England Publishing Co.

William Randolph Hearst of New York City owns the entire stock of the Star Holding Corp.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is 282,930. (This information is required from daily publications only.)

M. C. PRIEST, Business Manager.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 8th day of April, 1930.

(Seal) WILLIAM F. McGUIRE.

(My commission expires August 24, 1930.)

Gold Star Mothers

New England Resents Hurley's Ruling

THE refusal of Secretary of War Hurley to arrange for the Gold Star mothers of New England to sail from Boston on the pilgrimage to the graves of their soldier dead should not be accepted as final.

Boston and New England have received too shabby treatment on too many matters of late. If they continue to take these lickings lying down, voicing only now and then a feeble protest, they will receive in the future nothing but contempt from Washington officialdom.

Mr. Hurley's statement that it is "impossible" to have the liners touch at Boston for the purpose of picking up the Gold Star mothers is hardly what could be expected from an Administration to which nothing was to be impossible.

The great steamship lines of Europe find no difficulty in having their steamships stop here on both the outbound and incoming trips. The northern route to Europe and the shortest one leads past Boston's front door.

The United States government found no difficulty in putting their great transports and cruiser convoys into the port of Boston when they were taking these boys from their mothers to their death on the battlefields of France.

These mothers gave much. Now let the government give much to their convenience. Let not the sentiment of their pilgrimage be marred in the slightest degree by the obduracy of some red-tapist in the War Department who has drawn a blueprint of this trip and wants to stick by it in the precocity of his infallible judgment.

The sentiment is all for their sailing from Boston. It was to Boston the heroic mothers came to take the last farewells of their boys. Boston was the headquarters of the Army area. Boston was the headquarters of the Yankee Division and it was the mecca of the other New England units whose standards were in the forefront in the famous drives that brought the war to conclusion.

In appreciation of the valor of the soldier dead and in testimonial to the quiet, firm courage of the fine women who gave them unflinchingly to the service of the country, Boston could be counted upon to render them a reception on the eve of their sailing that would live in their hearts forever.

Mayor Curley and the other representative officials of New England should go to Washington and by the power of their logic convince Mr. Hurley that "impossible" is not a word which New Englanders accept, especially when the convenience of Gold Star mothers is the issue. In this matter they will find the Boston Evening American co-operating.

What's Your Platform?

Prohibition Not Most Vital Issue

THE thought that the Senatorial and Congressional campaigns in New England, and notably in Massachusetts, will be confined to a kilkenny scrap on prohibition is being steadily insinuated into the public mind.

The public should not permit this idea to distract their attention from the economic issues which affect their pocketbook and from the deep national issues which may affect the security of their country.

Prohibition is important. But it is not all. We can think of many other vital issues on which the candidates will not be permitted to duck, dodge or straddle. Build a little platform of your own and ask your candidates how they stand on your planks. A short but important platform is here suggested:

The tariff is indefensible as a whole and ruthless in its maltreatment of New England.

The lame-duck Congress is unresponsible to the public, often dominated by officials who have already been repudiated by the people and should be abolished without further delay.

The waterpower sites are an invaluable property of the country which never should be despoiled for private gain and which should be developed with the single purpose of the greatest good for the greatest number.

The New England railroads, developed by the brain and brawn of New Englanders, should be retained under the control of New England and not be played as the tail of the kite of any system whose primary interest is not confined to New England.

The national safety is paramount. New England, with its long seacoast, especially demands that the American people shall be unrestrained in their right to upbuild an army and navy suitable to their needs and that such defense shall include the immediate enlargement of military and commercial aviation.

The League Court and similar super-governments are incompatible with the spirit and traditions of the American Republic, which was so largely conceived and instituted through the valor of the early New England patriots.

Perhaps readers would like to write their own platforms and send them in to us. The Boston Evening American would be interested to see them.

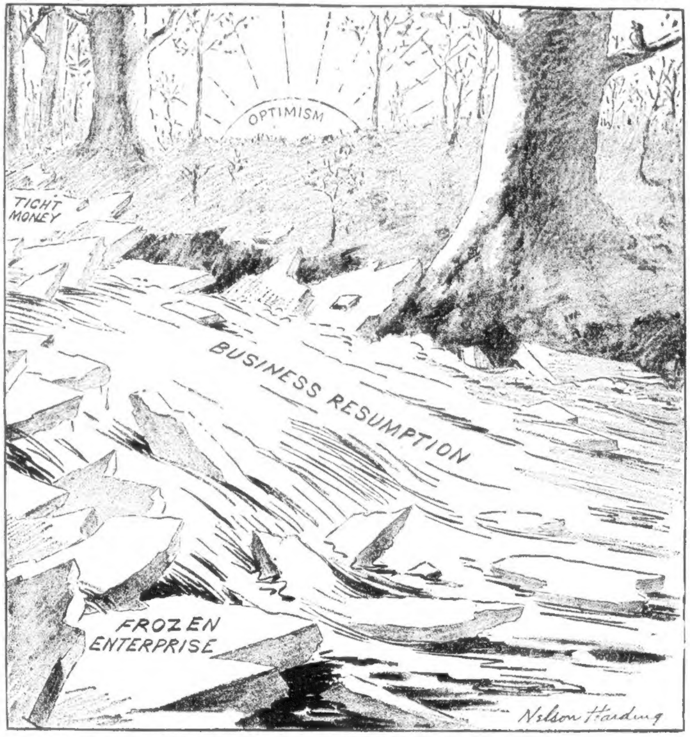
Spring Thaw

By NELSON HARDING



The frozen stream has been thawed out
And underneath a warming sun
The shackled current is released
And once again begins to run.

The winter's ice has melted fast,
The clearing sky's no longer gray,
And rapidly will flow the tide
As obstacles are swept away.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and G. P. Wells

SOMETIMES these seem to be wholly useless, while in other cases, although they have no use as limbs, they protrude as two claws, which doubtless serve some new if minor function.

If, as their general anatomy indicates, snakes have evolved from lizards, these vestiges make sense; without the background of evolution, are inexplicable.

H. G. Wells

The duckbill platypus has no teeth; like a bird, it uses a horny bill instead. But it is a mammal and on evolutionary principles must have descended from toothed forbears.

We look for evidence on this point and there the evidence is, carried about by the young platypus in the shape of teeth which, though they are complete with dentine and enamel, never cut the gum.

They have no function whatever, save that of reassuring the evolutionist; and the same is true of the whalebone whales, for here also the embryo develops teeth and then changes its mind and absorbs them again, all before it is born.

The vestiges of toes preserved to us in the horse's splint bones have no sense save an evolutionary one; and here the fossil record clinches the matter by showing that this sense is the true one.

In the common Vapourer moth, which of recent years has become such a pest to trees in London parks, the females are wingless. Where they burst out of their cocooons, there they stay, and are sought out and fertilized by the winged males.

Most moths, of course, are winged in both sexes; thus on the theory of evolution we should expect that the wingless female Vapourer had arisen from winged ancestors.

That she has done so is shown by the fact that she still bears the vestiges of wings—mere buds, wholly useless for any purpose, and interestingly enough in the chrysalis stage the wing-rudiments are actually larger than in the adult moth.

Another very pretty example of a vestigial organ is to be seen in the African Swallowtail butterfly, Papilio dardanus. The "tails" of Swallowtails are prolongations of the hind wings; and in order to make room for these during the resting stage between caterpillar and butterfly their chrysalis-cases possess special little pockets into which the tail-rudiments project.

Now Papilio dardanus differs from most Swallowtails in being tailless in the female sex; for the females in shape, color and pattern, mimic other butterflies which happen to enjoy immunity from attack by most enemies.

But the chrysalis-cases of the females possess tail-pockets just like those of the males, although they are obviously useless, and not to be explained, unless we suppose that dardanus is descended from an ordinary Swallowtail with tails in both sexes.

Sometimes one only of a pair of organs becomes vestigial. Female birds have only one ovary and oviduct—the left—doubtless to provide against the accidents that might occur if two large and brittle eggs were to knock about simultaneously in their insides; but the right ovary and oviduct are always present as miniature and useless vestiges.

The reptiles, from which the birds undoubtedly have evolved, possess a pair of functional ovaries and oviducts; so that the presence of the vestigial right set of organs is perfectly intelligible to the evolutionist.

Vestiges may of course, also occur in plants. The well-known Butcher's Broom (Ruscus) gives us an example. In this plant what appears to be the leaves are really flattened-out stems, as is shown by the fact that on them are born the flowers, and by other anatomical details.

This curious arrangement is an adaptation to a dry soil; the leaf-like stems are flattened vertically instead of horizontally, like ordinary leaves, and are accordingly not so much heated as as leaves would be, and so lose less water from their pores.

However, leaves are not absent in the Butcher's Bloom; they are still to be found, but only in the form of vestiges, mere scale-like organs below the leaf-like stems and the flower-stalks.

These contain very little chlorophyll, and in any case soon wither and fall off, so that they are quite useless for the leaf's prime function of food-manufacture.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHY IS A PART TIME MOTHER?

MRS. FRANCES PERKINS, New York State Industrial Commissioner, does not believe in "part time mothers." She thinks it's perfectly outrageous for mothers to seek jobs when they might be sitting happily at home raising three or four children, or even eight or ten.

Elsie Robinson

"The trouble with American life today," says Mrs. Perkins, "is that we are practically all 'keeping up with the Joneses.' It is almost impossible for the head of the house to earn sufficient income to maintain the high standards of American living. To meet this condition the mothers go to work . . . I can't imagine a better life than that of the mother of a large family. I do not see why the young women do not settle down to the serious business of having eight or ten children and making a good job of it and having a lot of fun at it.

"DAY nursery school, all-day sessions in school and summer schools in my opinion are contributory factors that have done much to destroy the home life in America. Summer camps are almost an evil, in my opinion. The idea was capitalized so money could be made on parents who desire comfort when their children want to romp about the home."

Thus Mrs. Perkins—and I haven't a doubt that countless complacent citizens, sitting in comfortable homes, will applaud her loudly. But Nora Sullivan and Hester Ginsberg and Maggie Brown and Olga Swanson and little Rosa Sanguinet'i won't applaud her. They'll wonder miserably—and perhaps resentfully—what Mrs. Frances Perkins would do if she stood in their shabby shoes.

Suppose her Tim were down with pneumonia and there were five little mouths to feed?

Suppose her Jim had been killed—smashed flat by a crane, down on the docks—just a month before the baby was born?

Suppose her Tom had gotten discouraged walking the streets in bitter weather, with never a job in sight—and drifted off and away?

SUPPOSE her Eric had gotten himself in a jam—he with his great fists and his hot fighting blood—and was taking a rap of six months over in the county jail?

Suppose her Tony was wild and weak, drank, gambled and played the ponies?

"What would she do then?" they'll say as they read her article, Nora, Hester and Maggie, Olga and little Rose Sanguinetti and their thousands of sisters. "Would she then be leaving her children to starve? 'Keeping up with the Jones,' is it? Keeping up with empty stomachs—keeping up with bare feet—keeping up with a leaky roof and a cold stove—that's the truth of it.

"MAYBE she's wise enough, this industrial commissioner lady, to be picking a husband who doesn't play the ponies, or lucky enough to get one who doesn't get smashed on the dock—but for the likes of us, who have to take what we get, WHAT CHANCE IS THERE?"

* * *

The "likes of them"—they're the REAL part-time mothers. Not the restless few who want prettier clothes or easier hours—but these thousands of weary, aging mothers, or desperate young ones who fight for a job to fill some cruel need, these are the real working wives who are a bitter problem in America today. FOR THE LIKES OF THEM—WHAT CHANCE IS THERE?

Two Fortunate Apes

And the Molecules in a Water Drop

(Copyright, 1930)

MONKEYS AT BREAKFAST IN THEIR GLASS CAGE IN THE CHICAGO ZOO

THESE two members of the ape family, alleged to be your cousins—but you need not believe it—inhabit a superior cage in Chicago's Zoo.

It is a superior cage because the glass in it is a special kind that permits the sun's actinic rays to come through. Ordinary glass shuts out those rays and so shuts out the sun's health-giving properties.

Sitting on soft straw, drinking pure milk, pasteurized, to protect these apes from their deadliest enemy, tuberculosis, with glass that lets in the health rays, a temperature always even, those monkeys have conditions better than they would have in their African jungle.

Of course they haven't THE one great thing, which is liberty. You can't expect everything, especially in a zoo.

We may expect, however, after trying it on monkeys and other animals, that the earth's richest "civilization" will decide to try the new and better glass in public schools.

School children ARE our relatives, no doubt about that.

There is serious doubt about the chimpanzees, and we ought to think of the children first.

So much for our two monkey friends, whose pictures are reproduced from "ADVERTISING and SELLING."

These two alleged cousins of ours would be amazed if they could read and understand the article that Floyd W. Parsons wrote to go with their photograph.

He tells how a rat, afflicted with a certain disease, has in a drop of its blood more disease germs than red blood cells.

A tiny quantity of a drug preparation called "arsenoxide" is injected into the rat's blood. In thirty minutes not one of the germs is left living, the rat is all right, its blood is cleared. This means that in thirty minutes the tiny speck of arsenoxide has destroyed five thousand million germs in the blood of a rat weighing three ounces.

When you know how small a molecule is, you know that thirteen one-hundredths of a milligram of arsenoxide would supply plenty of medicine for the five billion germs.

Our minds cannot grasp figures that express the number of molecules, much less that of the atoms that make up the molecules, in a pinhead.

A drop of water is made of molecules, each molecule containing two atoms of hydrogen and one atom of oxygen.

There are about sixteen hundred million human beings on the earth. If every one of them started counting the molecules in one drop of water, each human being counting three molecules every second, it would take them all more than ten thousand years to count the molecules in that ONE drop of water.

This in an interesting world, but one that is becoming every day more and more complicated.

It is just as well for our alleged cousins, whose picture you see above, that they stop where they are now, and do not have molecules, atoms, cosmic rays, prohibition or the fourth dimension to worry about.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 10—Once an aristocratic driveway connecting Central Park with Riverside Drive, West Seventy-Second st. has become publicized as The Street of Scandals. Fifteen years ago it sheltered the Nathan Strauses, the Huylers, the Dunlaps and others of wealth, known for their philanthropies.

While here and there it retains touches of former opulence, the character of its four-block length has greatly changed. Among its fading glories the fashionable Dakota apartment house remains the only one in town with an expansive sweep of lawn and a tunnelled arcade of private shops underneath.

INNUMERABLE brown stone fronts and grilled mansions have been torn away to make room for towering and ornate apartment hotels. Seven have arisen in one block in four years. Table d'hote cafes, quick lunches, beauty salons, tea rooms and such are in profusion.

Several cheaper apartment houses are filled with high flying chorus girls, gigolos and those negligee ladies known as keptees. In the area are also several apartments listed as "houses of call." Broadway's professional gamblers hold forth there, too.

One apartment building on West 72d st.—which changed its name since the murder—was owned by the late Arnold Rothstein and was his home before the assassin's bullet laid him low. Another apartment house was the scene of the Frank Tinney-Imogene Wilson episode, which spread the first pages.

E. W. BROWNING, the gray-haired millionaire Romeo, had his real estate offices on 72d and lived there during the exciting tabloid exposures of his various marital difficulties with the now famous "Peaches." Browning owns several buildings along the strip.

A private house on the thoroughfare is reputed the location of one of the most select from beer to cointreau speak-easies in all the town. Not even the bona-fide "members" are permitted to pass through its portals unless in formal dress.

Drug addicts, driven to desperation by craving, often execute what the underworld calls "wing dings." That is, they simulate epileptic seizures along the street in hope that arriving ambulance doctors will administer hypodermic injections as first aid. Some of the "wing ding" artists are able to portray pain so convincingly they fool experts.

The late Harry Tammen, newspaper publisher and circus man of Denver, and not Texas Guinan, invented the salutation, "Hello, sucker." Tammen was greeting cronies in this fashion long before New York had a night club.

TO the gentleman back of me who hummed all the tunes while they were being sung in a revue last night: I'm simply furious at you!

"It occurs to me," writes R. D. S., "that you column lads are afflicted with an egoistic malady that breaks out in a rash of I's. After reading so many of you for so long I am unable to talk about anybody but myself. What do you take for it?"

What are you offering?
